France Leading In Disarmament, Briand Replies To Curzon

Premier in Sharp Retort to Criticism of British Foreign Minister

ALL FRANCE AROUSED
Resent Charge That France Is Holding Position of Revengeful Isolation

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK — Disclaiming today any wish to reply to the address of Lord Curzon in London, urging France not to pursue an
"isolated and individualistic" policy,
Premier Briand declared this was no time for argument between
"friends and allies."

He asserted that, notwithstanding the "exceptional" situation of France in Europe, the French government was proposing to go further in limitation of armaments,
both on land and sea, than any other nation.

M. Briand was a passenger on the steamship Paris, sailing today for Havre on his trip home after outlining the position of his country in regard to the limitation of armament before the Washington conference.

"I do not wish to reply to Lord
Curzon's statement for the reason that I haven't the official text," said
M. Briand. "I do not quite see the interest, what interest there can be for friends and allies to argue with one another at the very moment
when they are trying to secure the peace of the world. It is primarily between them that peace ought to exist."

He said that the words Mr.
Briand pronounced at the last public session of the conference when he solemnly recognized, as did all the other delegates, that the situation of France in Europe was exceptional and that she had need to take precautions for her security.

"As regards disarmament, France will have gone as far along this road as any other country without exception, in effect on land in spite of the dangers which she undergoes, she has already spontaneously reduced her metropolitan army by a third. In spite of the law which keeps three classes with the colors, actually there are only two. Furthermore, the government has introduced a bill in parliament
which reduces the period of service
by half, and, in consequence the number of effectives in the same proportion."

"It is much more than the other nations will do as regards navies, since the naval reduction envisaged
does not exceed 40 per cent."

Fleet Has Been Reduced.
"Add this; that France, which has sixty million subjects in colors, whose coasts are of three seas,
and which consequently need a navy, has seen her fleet of capital ships reduced by the effects of the war from three squadrons to a single squadron. She is prepared on this ground to realize an accord with her friends and her allies for the same proportional reductions."

"Consequently, in the sum totals
of her forces of national defense (land army and sea army) it can be said that France will have made an effort at reduction superior to that of any other nation, and merit will be done because she is in veritable danger."

Says Germans Still Danger.
"The English friends ought to remember the fact that the German army is at the bottom of the sea and that consequently it is no longer a menace either for England or for us. But the seven million men of the German army are still there very much alive and available. This is a fact that France must realize and consider."

In conclusion, I have observed with the greatest satisfaction that it is sufficient for me to explain
the situation to the American people in order to be understood by the whole world. This permits me to leave for France with a tranquil spirit and a peaceful heart."

LONDON — One of the most outspoken warnings ever addressed by the foreign minister of one nation to another, friendly nation
was delivered publicly by Lord Curzon, in France, on Thursday.

The British foreign minister declared that if France pursued an isolated and individualistic policy
she would not in the long run injure Germany and would fail to protect herself.

It was a warning couched, if anything, in plainer terms than a sounding speech delivered by Premier

City Unites in Thanksgiving Celebration

Needy Not Forgotten in Observance; Churches in Union Services

A real old fashioned Thanksgiving day, with the spirit of good will and cheer prevailing in every corner of the city, with kindness poured forth through filled baskets for the Thanksgiving tables of the poor, was seen in Madison on Thursday.

Charitable organizations and clubs co-operated to make the day
one of thankfulness.

Family reunions were held throughout the day and visiting friends and relatives from out of town helped to brighten the occasion. Dances and entertainments were held at night in the various clubs.

"What shall I render unto Jehovah for all his benefits toward me?
I will pay my vows unto Jehovah,
yea, in the presence of all his people."

This was the theme of the Thanksgiving sermon delivered by Rev. J. Sherman Wallace at the First Congregational church Thursday morning, at a service by the seven Protestant churches of the city.

"Did you ever count your blessings? There has come to most of us and there might have come to each of us a greater blessing than any of our recoveries and escapes.
It is the blessing of an abundant life. A life made rich by the love of God. A life that possesses all things that belong to God and a life that in turn belongs to him. This is that gift to life its true value, this is the greatest blessing ever given from God to men. This has come because Almighty God has given himself to us and for us every moment of the year, an age long giving of the Father exemplified once for all
when in that dark but glorious hour
the God-man poured out his life on Calvary."

"One way to express this thanksgiving is to accept the blessings He gives, thankfully, trustfully. When we do this and are truly thankful.
Oh, how the world is changed!
There are two ways to be rich. One is to increase the number of our dollars, the other is to increase the value of the dollars we have. There are two ways to feast; one way is to increase the load upon our tables,
the other is to put a delicious
sweetness into our simple fare.

There are two ways to be attractive; one is to clothe ourselves in costly robes, the other is to make ourselves so pleasant that our generations are never seen. The wealth of the world belongs not to those who hold the title-deeds; it belongs to those who realize their oneness with the giver of every good and perfect gift, those who have the power to appreciate those who are truly thankful for it all. To him who knows that he hath shall be given; from him that thinketh that he hath not shall be taken away
even that which he hath."

"Another way is to express thankfulness unto him in the public assembly. That is why we are here. We owe it to him. It is the greatest glory of our nation, this thanksgiving day. We have gathered together today all over our land to review God's goodness to us
during the year and to express a national thanks. Of old they entered into God's house with instruments of music and songs of praise and the glory of Jehovah came down until the priests were not able to minister because of the cloud of glory that filled the house.
We have thanked him as individuals, we have thanked him as families, we have thanked him as churches assembled and today our nation has lifted its heart in a great anthem of praise and so long as we do it in sincerity the blessing of God shall come down and rest upon us."

Probe $150,000 Gas
Blast in Fond du Lac
FOND DU LAC, Wis.—Investigation was under way today to fix
the responsibility for the explosion which yesterday wrecked the gas
plant of the Eastern Wisconsin Electric Co. here. Two men were on duty at the time but no one was seriously injured. The damage is estimated at $150,000. B. W. Arnold, Oshkosh, president of the company, and M. H. Frank of this city, resident manager, are questioning employees to determine the cause of the blast. The explosion was due, officials believe, to gas being turned into the pump-house
where some unknown cause set it off. The blast wrecked the pump house and lifted the roof of an adjacent building used as a boiler house. The office building was also damaged, but the blast did not stop operations at the plant.

Boy Asks Damages Of City For Fall Into Sewer Here

Sixty dollars damages to his clothes and health is asked of the city of Madison by Roland
Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Hans Peterson, 200 Mills St.
The 10-year-old boy slipped through a man hole at Mills and
W. Dayton streets, on November 6, and fell into the sewer.
Gilbert, Ela and Heilman are his attorneys.

The claim for damages states
that "man hole cover was partially removed so that when Roland Peterson slipped upon the same, the cover tipped up and fell into the sewer, completely ruining his clothes and giving him slight bruises, besides covering him with filth." A suit, cap, necktie and pair of shoes are listed among the articles of clothing not wearable again.

Sentiment Is Strong For 3rd Party-Hopkins

Chairman of Committee of Forty-Eight Confers
With Leaders Here

That there is a surprising amount of third party sentiment throughout the country is the statement by J. A. H. Hopkins of New York, national chairman of the Committee of Forty-eight.

Mr. Hopkins came to Madison yesterday and has been in conference with liberals with regard to the situation in Wisconsin. No effort at a third party will be made in Wisconsin at this time, according to Mr. Hopkins.

"The corrupt money clique, now
in absolute control of the country,
is leading us straight to another world war by their financial, economic and international policies," declared Mr. H. Hopkins.

"The Democrats are down and out," Hopkins asserted. "The Republicans are unable to solve the railroad problem, to deal satisfactorily with taxation or the tariff, to prevent fatal commercial rivalries with other countries. Unless a dramatic new program is adopted there will be another smashup of civilization."

"At this very moment, under the guise of disarmament, the financial barons of this and other countries are meeting to divide the economic resources of the world among themselves in order that their exploitation of the people may be even greater than that of the last few days."

"Our various economic problems are no longer felt to be local; they are national and international. The Committee of 48 has drawn up a program to cope with these problems, framed in a reasonable way,
so that the American people need not shy away from the immediate adoption by the people as yet. That is why we are forming a Liberal party instead of a radical one. We recommend taxing all land values,
including coal, timber, oil and mineral lands; public ownership of railroads, canals and pipe lines, including all necessary lines of communication; equal rights, free speech, a free press and peaceable assembly."

"It is either this program or war
and ruin."

It was explained that no attempt
will be made to put rival tickets to the liberal wings of parties already in the field in Wisconsin, although in other states like Ohio, Michigan and Illinois the Liberal party is prepared to take full part in the 1922 congressional and state campaigns.

Hirohito is Regent Of Japan

Crown Prince is Named to Lead Destinies of His Country

EMPEROR VERY ILL
Action Follows Report That Yoshihito Is In Critical Condition

(By the Associated Press)
TOKIO — Crown Prince Hiro-hito has been designated regent of Japan.

Designation of Crown Prince Hirohito as regent follows reports which have been in circulation for about a year
that Emperor Yoshihito was in bad physical condition. A dispatch to a Honolulu newspaper
in May, last year, reported
that he had suffered a mental
and physical breakdown.

The emperor's physical and mental condition had become aggravated it was said.

There were signs that he had been suffering from a severe disease of the brain, the imperial household stated, and it was recalled that he was seriously ill during his infancy and that his malady
had recurred when he had attained his majority.

Since his coronation in 1915,
a gradual weakening in mind and body had been noted.

Announcement was Expected
(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON — Announcement
from Tokyo of the regency of Hirohito was expected in Japanese circles here as the recent tour of the Crown Prince to Europe generally was understood to have been the first step in the court arrangement to give Hirohito the conduct of the empire because of the continuing illness of the emperor.

This tour was arranged so that before taking up the duties of regency the young crown prince
would have an opportunity to study
foreign lands and customs.

The regent, who is 20 years old,
has accomplished a great deal in establishing a more liberal understanding between the imperial court and the people of the empire.
He has abandoned the ancient idea
of imperial aloofness and has appeared at public meetings in an informal manner and made speeches.
It is his understanding here among the Japanese that the immediate reason for the regency is the incurable illness of the emperor who is quite unable to carry on the duties of the throne.

Glenn E. Plumb to Speak at Public Meet Here Tonight

well-known Plumb plan for the joint

Recall U. S. Grand Jury Here Dec. 1

Will Continue Booze Probe, Report; Car
Thefts Up

The federal grand jury, impannelled in the U. S. district court here, was recalled for Dec. 1 today.
Considerable work which has arisen
in this district since the jury was temporarily dismissed at the close of the special term of court
here recently, is given as the reason for the recalling of that body.

The order, received from Judge
Claude Z. Luse by W. H. Comerford, court clerk, was issued today,
and the jurors will be notified immediately.

Though officials are not communicative on the amount or character of the work, it is believed that in addition to investigating the cases of five alleged freight car thefts, recently arrested in Michigan for train robberies committed in this district, the jury will continue its probe of the liquor traffic in Madison. The five men are being held in the Dane county jail.

The jury's investigations here a month ago brought the booze traffic to a temporary standstill. Another attack to combat the increasing transactions in liquor, it is rumored, will be made to wipe out the flow of booze in Madison.

turbine by fire company No. 1
before much damage had been done.

The second fire occurred at 5:35,
when the department was called to 646 E. Gorham st. to extinguish a chimney blaze. At 7:25 p. m. No.
2 was called to 431 N. Lake st., the home of Clarence A. Delaney, to put out a chimney fire. On Thursday morning, at 10:15, No. 1 was called to 305 N. Baldwin st., where an overheated furnace had started a fire in the cellar. A false alarm called out No.
3 Thursday night at 9 p. m., to Wil-lamson and Rogers sts.

Irish Parley Near Break; Belfast Riots

Conference in Critical Stage; Death Toll in Fighting Reaches 27

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON—As Premier Graig of Ulster went into conference with Prime Minister Lloyd George today,
it was admitted officially that the Irish peace negotiations had reached a "grave and critical stage."

A prominent member of the Sinn
Fein broke this out.
"The situation is too serious for talk," he said. "Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins and George Duffy
(the Sinn Fein delegates) have gone to Dublin to take council with De Valera and the Dail Eireann
cabinet and to receive instruction
as to the attitude they are to adopt.
They will return to London, Saturday night, to meet Lloyd George after he has received Sir James Graig's reply."

At today's interview Mr. Lloyd George was unable to give Ulster assurance that even if he agreed to his proposal the Sinn Fein would admit the point of allegiance to the King as king of Ireland. Such admission has been refused by the Dail Eireann representatives who are declared to view Ireland's position solely as that of an independent state which might make treaties with other states of the British empire and possibly even acknowledge the King as the president of a federation of free states.

This is nothing like the settlement plan the British government had in mind, and it appears if the Sinn Fein maintains its attitude the negotiations must be broken off with the resumption of warfare an immediate possibility.

The interview between the Ulster Premier and Lloyd George lasted an hour. Sir James said he was going to Belfast tonight.

Belfast Toll Now 27.

sist in quelling the disorders which

tram cars and desultory shooting
in which seven persons were killed and a number seriously injured.

Marine Who Shot Man Is Ordered Held

Gov. Blaine Orders Issuance of Warrant in Green Bay Today

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO—Headquarters of the marine mail guards here said today Wisconsin authorities will have to ask permission of the navy department at Washington if they want to arrest Private Marcus M. Hensen for shooting a train rider at Green Bay last Sunday. While on the railway mail car, it was said,
the marine guards are on government territory and cannot be interfered with by state officials.

(By the Associated Press)
GREEN BAY, Wis.—Acting under orders of Gov. J. J. Blaine, Dist. Atty. Carl F. Young, secured
a warrant for the arrest of Marcus
M. Hensen, 22, marine mail guard, who is alleged to have shot Otto Lambrecht while he was attempting to steal a ride on a Northwestern train last Sunday morning.

A subpoena was also issued for
R. V. Murphy, another marine guard, who was with Hensen at the time of the shooting. Murphy will probably be brought here as a witness to the shooting.

Hensen reported to his captain
that he shot the man at DePere.
According to a telegram received here from Mr. Young, Hensen has been taken off the Wisconsin run
and placed aboard another train.

Dist. Atty. Young and Sheriff
Nick Ryan, left Green Bay Thursday morning for Chicago to work on that end of the case with the view of arresting Hensen. It was learned that the marine had been called into the Great Lakes naval training camp. The Brown county officers upon their arrival at the camp
were refused permission to arrest
the marine or even question him.
After being refused this request,
Mr. Young left for Madison where he was to confer with the governor Friday.

Gov. Blaine in a letter to Mr.
Young directed him to investigate
the cause of the shooting of Lambrecht at DePere. Mr. Young questioned Lambrecht at a local hospital during the earlier part of the week. No statement was issued from the district attorney's office
after the interrogation.

The Governor's orders for an investigation questions the authority of the government to order a marine of a mail car to shoot promiscuously at any one who the guard might suspect, near a mail car or in a railroad yard. The case, has been in a process of formation
since Wednesday when the chief executive wrote Dist. Atty. Young a letter requesting him to investigate.

Cold Resisting Corn Grown in Wisconsin

Enough Seeds of New Variety Produced to Supply State

Enough corn of the new cold-resistant variety to seed all of northern Wisconsin was grown in a few sections of that region this past season, states B. D. Leith, of the agronomy department of the University of Wisconsin. A new variety of corn is a result of selection from Golden Glow No. 12 and has been developed largely through the efforts of Mr. Leith. That it is giving high production records in the localities in which it is grown cannot be denied. A Dunn county farmer reports a yield of 100 bushels to the acre of ear corn on a four-acre field this year. This is probably the highest yield of any variety of corn in Dunn county. "The seed of the cold-resistant variety can be planted from a week to 10 days earlier in the spring than the acclimated corn," says Mr. Leith. The plants develop a larger stalk, making fine silage, and is used much in this way. At present it ripens about the same time as other varieties grown in that section.

The ideal for which we are selecting is to combine early maturity with a big yield. As yet, there has been no crop failure that could be attributed to the new strain. In an ordinary season the cold-resistant can be planted by the first of May, and is ready for silage before the first frost, which often occurs around Sept. 1st in these northern regions.

Kleinheinz Heads U. W. Exhibit at Exposition

Prof. Frank Kleinheinz has left with an unusually attractive exhibit of sheep chosen from the University of Wisconsin flocks for the International Livestock exhibition in Chicago. He will display in all about 25 animals representing the four breeds, Shropshire, Hampshire, Cheviot, and Rambouillet. Besides presenting the University sheep exhibit, Mr. Kleinheinz will judge the fat and breeding classes of Southdown and Cheviot sheep.

The university will also present an exhibit of Percheron horses and a picked team will represent the state and institution in an international stock judging contest. The team will be selected from among the following young men: R. C. Klussendorf, Milwaukee county; A. H. Knudson, Green county; R. P. Knoll, Milwaukee county; W. P. Koeh, West Point, Nebraska; K. P. Sayre, Rock County; Harvey Weaver, Sheboygan county; and G. L. Weber, Kewaunee county. Prof. J. G. Fuller of the department of animal husbandry has coached the team.

1,340 Soldier Cases

Handled by Red Cross

Their families have been handled by the Dane county chapter of the American Red Cross, at its headquarters at the Madison Association of Commerce during the year ending Nov. 1, and $700 has been loaned.

The work of the Dane county chapter is under supervision of the director, Mrs. Frank W. Hoyt. Miss Florence Jewett is the office secretary. They are assisted in investigating cases by members of the American Legion and the Service Star Legion.

The finances to carry on this great work are secured from the dollar memberships given in the annual Roll Call of the Red Cross. The Madison campaign is being directed by T. G. Murray, assisted by members of the Rotary club.

Lists of Apprentices

Sent Out by State

The industrial commission has commenced sending to all large employers lists of boys who desire to be apprenticed. Names of several hundred prospective apprentices are brought before the employers through this method, the commission reports. The plan is said to not only help the boys in finding opportunities to become skilled mechanics, but also assists employers in selecting good apprentices. All employers are urged by the commission to give attention to the selection of their young workers, and the commission suggests that no boys be apprentices merely because they no longer care to go to school. An incentive is given Wisconsin apprentices by employers who follow the commission's suggestion that one month be cut off each year of the apprenticeship period if the boy reaches a high degree of efficiency.

Lulu Bett To Open Parkway Dec. 5 and 6

Miss Zona Gale's Prize Play to Be First Attraction

Miss Lulu Bett, the Pulitzer prize play of 1921, by Zona Gale, has been selected as the opening attraction for the Parkway theater, formerly known as the Fuller opera house, W. G. Beecroft, secretary of The Mifflin Realty Co., announced today. It will be presented here two nights, Dec. 5 and 6, by the original New York and Chicago cast, headed by Carroll McComas.

"Madison people are to be congratulated upon having the opportunity of seeing this truly American play presented by the original cast which made such a hit in New York during the seven months that the production ran there," Mr. Beecroft said.

"Because Miss Zona Gale, the author of the play, is a noted Wisconsin writer and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, it was thought that Miss Lulu Bett was particularly appropriate as the opening attraction at the Parkway."

The work of remodeling the Fuller opera house into the Parkway theater is now going forward day and night. The plasterers are now putting on the finishing touches, the decorators are busy at work, the electrical fixtures are going up, and the Kimball pipe organ is being installed. Everything is expected to be in readiness when the doors are opened to the public for the first time the night of Dec. 5. The announcement with regard to the ticket sale will be made in Saturday night's papers.

Cigaret Butts Cause Big Fires Each Month

We will leave it to the wife and mother to discuss stagnant smoke and the morality of smoking, says the Industrial commission, today.

The right to smoke may be an individual matter; but what the smoker does with the lighted match, cigarette butt, cigar stub or pipe heel, is of vital concern to the public. Each day Americans smoke 5,000 miles of cigarettes, and carelessly tossed butts burn $11,000 worth of property each month. The cigarette is the most dangerous of all smoking materials. It burns until consumed; hence every cast-off butt becomes a menace and potential fire cause. Smokers and match users caused a fire loss of $91,000,000 in the United States during the five-year period of 1915 to 1919. Careless smokers and users of matches caused a fire loss of $479,570 in Wisconsin in 1920. This waste of property affects us all, and the public may well protest against that part of the smoking habit which jeopardizes life and property. Blow out a match or break it, stamp on cigar and cigarette stubs and pipe heels and provide a metal, glass or china ash receiver. The public and employers of labor further have a right to limit smoking to places where life is not endangered. "No smoking" rules should be strictly enforced in all such places of employment, in garages, dry cleaning establishments, paint shops, in barns, near hay, straw and grain stacks and elsewhere, where volatile oils are kept or used or combustible materials are present.

Keeley-Neckerman Co.

MADISON'S BIGGEST AND BUSIEST STORE

HAVING acquired the business of the Keeley-Neckerman Co., which has been ably and honorably conducted in your city for over thirty years, first by Messrs. Keeley, Neckerman, and Kessenich, its founders, and more recently by Mr. Richard Keeley and Mr. George K. Anderson, I pledge myself to continue their policy of fair dealing, which has earned the respect and good will of the citizens of Madison and of the surrounding country.

Merchandise Policy

The best service a retail store can render its patrons lies in securing merchandise of quality. Madison, through the buying skill and high standards of her merchants, has enjoyed this kind of service. My former experience has made me familiar with the sources from which to obtain the finest goods that America has to offer, and I shall feel myself bound to exert my best efforts to support and if possible to advance, the standards to which you are accustomed.

Price Policy

To supply the highest possible quality merchandise at the lowest possible prices it is necessary to know the exact cost of all raw materials that enter into any piece of merchandise in the store, to be acquainted with the manufacturers who excel in their particular lines, and to have access to these lines through buying direct rather than through middlemen. Through such means I hope to effect a considerable reduction in the cost of distributing all our merchandise, as well as to avail myself of unusual opportunities to secure and to offer the surplus stock of manufacturers at extraordinary reductions.

An important factor in keeping down the prices of merchandise is an efficient management. The able administration of this store has kept its costs low, so that needless burdens have not been added to the price which customers have paid for goods. In this connection I count myself fortunate to continue the kindly and interested counsel of Mr. Neckerman, and to have associated with myself, as Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. V. S. Bond, a gentleman whose character and ability are an asset I am proud to recognize.

Service Policy

The sound foundation of goodwill upon which this business stands at present, due in no small measure to the splendid work of the entire sales force, some of whom have been with this store for many years and have established clienteles of their own. As I observe their merit, and that of the buyers and all the other members of the organization, I can comprehend how Madison people have been so well served in the past.

The service of courteous, informed sales people who have a pride in their work will be made a cardinal point in the policy of this store.

Advertising Policy

To tell the news about our goods; to present the fascinations of newly arrived merchandise and to interpret its utility for the complex needs of our customers; to stand upright upon a basis of absolute and unswerving truth; this will be held no less a duty and service than the buying of the merchandise itself. We want to increase the number of our friends and their confidence in us, through our messages to them.

Madison A Trade Center

Madison, lies in a location of great beauty, proud to own her Capitol and her great University; proud of her wholesalers and her manufacturers; proud no less of being the center of one of the most soundly prosperous sections of the United States. Its prosperity, unlike that of surrounding states, has not suffered through unwholesome pyramiding of land values.

A great population lies in our adjacent area. Many of these people recognize the surpassing advantages that Madison's splendid group of stores offer for their trade. Madison merchants are ready for a forward step in drawing more of our neighbors to satisfy their needs here.

I shall do all in my power to make Madison the great retail trading center of the State.

State Claims Hebe is Sold As Pure Milk

Madison Professor Tells of Attempted Sale in Milk Case

That a grocer in Door county attempted last summer to sell him Hebe, a compound of skimmed milk and refined coconut oil as an evaporated milk was testified to this morning by Prof. E. B. Hart of the agricultural chemistry department of the university at the hearing on the anti-compound law, passed by the legislature. The validity of the law is being challenged by the Carnation Milk Products Co., manufacturers of Hebe. The Hebe company, which markets the product, claims that the compound is not sold as any kind of a milk but the state, according to Ralph M. Hoyt, deputy attorney general, will attempt to show that it is being so sold.

Objection to Prof. Hart's testimony, made by Ralph W. Jackman, attorney for the Carnation Co., on the grounds of competency, was overruled by Judge Zimmerman, referee appointed by the state supreme court, before whom the hearing is being conducted.

Prof. Hart testified that, according to tests made on animals, condensed whole milk contains 10 times as much of the fat soluble A vitamin, which he believes to be necessary for growth, as does a compound of skimmed milk and coconut oil. Pictures of two chickens, hatched from the same setting, one fed on white corn, wheat, calcium carbonate, salt and separator skimmed milk and the other fed on the same ingredients with the exception of skimmed milk for which whole milk was substituted, were introduced as exhibits. The chicken fed with the whole milk yesterday weighed, according to Prof. Hart's testimony, 297 grams, while the other weighed only 160 grams. Both chickens were white leghorns of healthy stock.

The chicken fed on skimmed milk had what is known as "weak" legs, and was scarcely able to stand. The chickens were brought into court at Wednesday's hearing, but were not viewed by Judge Zimmerman, who declared he would take Prof. Hart's word as to their condition.

Prof. Hart declared that coconut oil contains practically no fat soluble A vitamin, and that the same is true of peanut and cottonseed oils. He testified that in an experiment with dogs it was shown that when a dog was fed rolled oats, skimmed milk, common salt and calcium carbonate it developed Xerophthalmia, an eye disease, whereas if butter fat, cod liver oil, alfalfa leaves or orange juice were added, the animal did not develop the disease. Butter fat, cod liver oil, alfalfa leaves and orange juice, according to Prof. Hart, all contain considerable amounts of fat soluble A vitamin.

Dr. E. V. McCullum of Johns Hopkins university, testifying for the state Wednesday, told of an experiment made at a Baltimore orphanage, where he regulated the diet of the children all of whom were undernourished to a great extent. Their regular food was meat, potatoes and certain kinds of vegetables. Half of the children were fed separately, this diet being reduced and to it added a quart of milk a day for each child. The results, according to Dr. McCullum, were remarkable, the children gaining and improving both physically and mentally. Dr. McCullum declared that a new type of diet is needed in this country, a diet containing more dairy products.

5,900 Students Make 32,792 Clinic Calls

Students seeking medical advice made 32,792 visits to the physicians of the clinic of the University of Wisconsin during the last academic year and summer session, and the doctors were called to students' rooms 1,599 times. Exactly 29,835 office visits and 1,515 house visits were made between Sept. 1920 and June, 1921. Of the house visits, 501 were made to men and 1,011 to women. During the 1921 summer session 2,837 office visits and 84 house visits were made. A total of 37,514 consultations are recorded by the university physicians for the entire year, including required medical examinations.

The 3,087 men who visited the physicians represent 62.7 per cent of the men students enrolled. The 2,167 women who sought medical service represents 84.3 of the women students. Of the 4,547 students registered in the 1921 summer sessions—including 2,119 men and 2,428 women—a total of 654, or 14.3 per cent sought medical advice and attention.

Badger Sheepmen Ask For Tariff On Wool

What do Wisconsin sheepmen want most? A tariff on wool and higher prices for wool, is the answer which Frank Kleinheinz, veteran shepherd of the University of Wisconsin, makes to this question.

He is displaying at the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago an exhibit of choicely fed and fitted Wisconsin sheep. Other wool-growing countries, such as Australia and New Zealand, always have and always will be able to produce wool cheaper than American sheepmen, because they have an abundance of cheap grazing lands and because the labor is cheaper there than here, declares this Badger sheepman. A tariff on wool importations would be a great boon to the wool industry of America.

Wouldn't Take $10,000 for It

W. H. Boyce Says Tanlac Changed him from Hopeless Invalid to Well and Happy Man

"I wouldn't take ten thousand dollars for the good Tanlac has done me," was the positive statement of Wm. H. Boyce, 8630 Fort St., West, Detroit, Mich., an employee of the Detroit United Railways Co.

"It has not only relieved all my suffering, but has built me up twelve pounds in weight, and I now weigh more than ever before in my life. For twenty-five years I suffered from stomach trouble and nervous indigestion. My stomach was sour as vinegar all the time, and no matter how little I would eat, I bloated with gas until I could hardly stand it. At the time I got Tanlac I couldn't keep down anything I would eat. I looked sick and puny, my eyes were sunk in deep holes in my head, with circles under them almost as black as my hat. I was very little more than skin and bone, and had aches and pains in both my legs worse than toothache. Nights I was so nervous I just lay awake for hours. I had doctored and spent all kinds of money, only to keep getting worse. It looked like nothing could be done for me, but a friend finally suggested Tanlac.

"Well, the first bottle changed me from a hopeless invalid into a man well and on the road to health. My appetite grew stronger every day. I gained rapidly, and now I am eating, sleeping and feeling like a different man. I'm on the job every day, equal to a real day's work. I've got more faith in Tanlac than any medicine on earth, and I don't hesitate a minute to speak up for it every chance I get."

Tanlac is sold in Madison by the Luckey Pharmacies and by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

PLAY TO BE STAGED
Get-Together Party Will Also Be Feature of Special Program

BY JULIA VAN AKEN
The Madison Y. W. C. A. was organized Nov. 20, 1908, and the two ladies responsible for its final organization were Mrs. M. B. Witte, a former resident of Madison, who now lives in Palo Alto, Cal., and Mrs. Joseph M. Boyd. Mrs. Boyd was the first president of the association and served in that office until the year of 1919. The unfailing efforts of these two women made possible the organization as it stands in the city today.

Stewardship will be the keynote of this significant occasion and because of the call that has gone out for a greater participation in the many activities of the association on the part of the members the following program will be given Monday evening to illustrate some points that will stimulate interest in the vital things of the Y. W. C. A.

From 7 until 8 o'clock there will be a "get acquainted" gathering in the parlors followed by a musical program to be given in the gymnasium. Our 1921 Budget, is a play, dramatized by Miss Jean Hoard, instructor in public speaking at the Y. W. C. A., and will be given to illustrate the splendid volunteer service given. The cast includes 25 people. Prof. Abbie L. Marlett, head of the economics department at the university, will be the speaker. At the close of the program refreshments will be served in the parlors by Mesdames W. B. Marshall, John A. Ward, H. D. Black, William G. Galt, A. D. Frederick, H. O. Jones, C. P. Norgard, D. W. Ows, Sydney Rundell, John St. John and C. K. Carpenter and Miss Margaret Anderson.

FORMER STUDENTS IN RESPONSIBLE POSITION

A former student, Loring T. Hammond, is holding a responsible position at Milwaukee, as manager of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, annual campaign selling Christmas seals. Mr. Hammond graduated from the university in 1920 and was member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity. Among his extra-curricular activities he served on Union board, as manager of Union Y. M. C. A., and many other positions which he held and served with commendable efficiency.

In this annual sale of Christmas seals for the Anti-Tuberculosis association from all over the state a determination to surpass all previous records. Mr. Hammond has a confidence that Milwaukee will have a larger sale this year than the previous year.

Mr. Hammond has planned the campaign in order that the proceeds will meet with the requirements of the committee which has made more extensive plans for the health work to be carried on.

Natalie Bushnell, Dancer, To Open Studio in City

Natalie Bushnell —Courtesy Badger Studio.

Miss Natalie Bushnell, of New York city, a dancer of note and just 18 years old, has arrived in Madison and will open a studio December 1, in the nights of Pythias hall, First National Bank building. She will teach toe dancing, pantomime, acrobatic and character dancing.

Some years ago Miss Bushnell started studying with Mrs. Norma Duignier, while she was making her home with her mother, Mrs. N. D. Bushnell, in Baton Rouge, La. At this time she was just 12 years old when her talent was discovered by Mrs. Duignier. According to Mrs. Duignier she taught Miss Bushnell all she knew and then advised her to continue her studies in the east. Mrs. Duignier's instructions had laid a foundation for Miss Bushnell when it was time for her to continue her studying with the celebrated ballet master, Stefano Macagno. She worked unrelentingly under his direction and with her youth, beauty and lithe figure has won many audiences in the east during her public appearances. Miss Bushnell has given several recitals unassisted, and danced for charity and other social organizations in the east.

Due to family connections it was necessary for her mother to make her home in Wisconsin and it was this fact that decided Miss Bushnell to open a studio in Madison. She is residing with her mother at 316 East Johnson street.

THIN, FLAT HAIR

GROWS LONG, THICK AND ABUNDANT

"Danderine" costs only 35 cents a bottle. One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and, in a few moments, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really never hair growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic, helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and abundant. Adv.

Information Bureau Aim Of Farmers

Meet Here to Launch Pro- ject, Long Stresses Fight Against Interests

About 50 progressive farmers answered the call and letter issued by Lt. Gov. Geo. Comings and Judge Long to meet at Labor Hall, Friday morning, to discuss the advisability of forming a farm organization that will furnish the farmers with correct information on subjects other than strictly agricultural topics.

At the meeting this morning J. Walter Long of the United Farmers was elected temporary secretary and John Mentink, Cedar Grove, Wis., was named temporary chairman.

The keynote address was given by Judge Long who declared himself as enough of a farmer to be not solely a judge. His parents were pioneers in Wisconsin territory and his farming experience was in Richland county where he still manages the land inherited from his father.

"The farmer is probably the most interested person in the pressing problems that must be solved in the disrupted world," said Judge Long in the fore part of his speech. "He is one of many classes that are now conferring constantly to remedy the difficulties that beset them from all sides and is probably the only one so doing that is not equipped with expert information to furnish him guides to the right path out of his troubles. The purpose of this meeting is to get that information and have it at all times, not only now when it is so sorely needed, but to maintain a permanent information bureau with which to combat the ever present interests that are selfishly taking more than their share of the agricultural produce of the country."

"We do not want more than our share of anything that we are not entitled to but we honestly believe that if America is to go on as a democracy even handed justice must be given to all."

Two of the most important subjects of the call as listed by the speaker were: open markets and a reasonable return of the labor necessary to raise farm products.

"The old fallacy that it was impossible to accurately gauge the reasonable return due a farmer has been refuted by modern economists who can as easily arrive at the cost of producing a bushel of wheat as the railroad companies can figure a profitable freight rate from Madison to Chicago. In the same manner we can figure our profits if we have the information with which to figure. We mean to have that information if we can successfully inaugurate this higher bureau that will stay on the job with unbiased view points and furnish unbiased reports."

"We mean no harm or interference with any existing farm societies, but rather a coordination of all such co-panies that will interest itself in the bigger things of agriculture other than marketing methods and better crop statistics, continued the speaker. "Agriculture is an institution in the United States, not a craft or an industry, and we want a bureau controlled by farmers that is entirely divorced from departments of agriculture as they are now constituted chiefly of politicians."

M. B. Pinkerton of Madison spoke briefly of a booklet which he had compiled on the subject and which he hoped would be used as a basis for the formation of the proposed society. The booklet is a 48 page study of present farm problems.

G. W. Schmidt, Stanley, Wis., and Sever Spennem, Mt. Horeb, all spoke on phases of the same topics.

Ex-assemblyman P. A. Hemmy of Humboldt was the only objector to the plans offered at the meeting. Mr. Hemmy said that he thought there were too many farm societies at present and believed that the better method would be to improve on one of the present organizations.

The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock to resume its sessions in the senate chamber at 1:30 p. m.

1400 New Families Settle in Northern Wisconsin in Year; Push Back Frontier

Pioneers Develop Agricultural Empire of State, Figures Show; Many Come from Middle-West Industrial Cities; Mostly Scandinavians

The vast undeveloped agricultural empire of Northern Wisconsin was entered by 1400 families of settlers during the year just ending, who occupied and started to develop approximately 112,000 acres of cultivated land. These pioneer farmers are pushing back the frontier which holds 10,000,000 uncultivated acres of property from cultivation, and gives Wisconsin its great colonization problem. The increasing influx of settlers from the Middle Western cities, according to G. M. Householder of the bureau of immigration, means the gradual opening of the state's untouched natural resources.

His report of 1400 new families of immigrants, is declared by him to be based on railroad returns to the state department of agriculture, and includes only those settlers who entered with a full carload of goods in their possession. Hundreds of others may have pushed their way into the new country, but without record made of them.

The greater number of settlers have graduated from the industrial centers of the Middle states into the realm of prospective home ownership, he declares, and enter the undeveloped country with a background of industriousness and energy. Mr. Householder says. They have seen an opportunity to better farming methods learned largely in the Scandinavian countries, Germany and Poland.

Coming to their 80 acre tracts the newcomers usually turn to pioneer methods and build themselves log houses. Gradually they clear an area of brush and stumps and prepare to plant crops that will afford a profitable adjunct to dairying, the principal industry of the settlers.

Once on the land the state, counties and state university unite to extend aid and advice. Tax exemption is granted for three years while the property is being developed, agricultural agents give instructions in farming methods and aid in explaining new land clearing methods, while the university furnishes information and through its experiment station determines what the farmers of each section can most profitably undertake with their property.

Doctor at 82 Finds Mothers Prefer His Formula to New-Fangled Salts And Coal Tar Remedies for Babies

Judgment of 1892 vindicated by world's approval of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a simple vegetable compound for constipation—So safe thousands give it to babes in arms—Now has largest sale in the world.

WHEN a man is in the 83rd year of his age, as I am, there are certain things he has learned that only time can teach him. The basis of treating sickness has not changed since I left Medical College in 1875, nor since I placed on the market the laxative prescription I had used in my practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

From a recent portrait of
DR. W. B. CALDWELL
Founder of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin
Born Shelbyville, Mo., 1838

Then the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of my Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other mild laxative herbs with pepsin.

Recently new medicines have been brought out for constipation that contain calomel, which is mercury, and salts of various kinds, minerals, and coal tar. These are all drastic purges, many of them dangerous, and the medical profession is warning the public against them. Certain coal tar products will depress the heart; certain salts give rise to intestinal poisoning, impaction and rupture of the intestines. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with pills and powders and strong drugs, even if disguised in candy? My remedy, too, costs less than most others, only about a cent a dose. A bottle such as you can find in any drug store, will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the babe in arms because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal.

The formula of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is on the cover of every bottle, and the ingredients have the endorsement of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia.

Syrup Pepsin Free

In remembrance of my 83rd birthday I have set aside the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars to be given away in half-ounce bottles of my Syrup Pepsin. Only one Free Trial bottle to a family. Cripples In Throng Storm Dr. Lorenz

Hundreds Crowd to Get Treatment of Famous Austrian Surgeon

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK—Cripples in wheel chairs, in automobiles and on crutches stormed the hospital for Dr. Lorenz today when Dr. Lorenz, famous Austrian surgeon, held the first of a series of clinics for the city's deformed. The great congestion that gathered outside the hospital authorities found it necessary to summon police reserves to handle the crowd.

The first patient arrived long before dawn, working his painful way up the hospital steps on twisted hands and knees, and crawling inside for a warm place to wait until the noted healer could see him.

An hour before the towering graybearded surgeon arrived, more than 100 persons had taken their places in line—mothers and fathers supporting their twisted children, adults with distorted limbs and backs, leaning on the arms of friends, or hobbling alone as best they could. Automobiles and wheel chairs lined the street outside.

Dr. Lorenz performed one operation to rectify a condition of knockknee in a 9 year old boy, chiseling through the bone and resetting it, then encasing the patient from shoulders to feet in a plaster cast.

Following the operation, which was watched by scores of American surgeons, Dr. Lorenz proceeded swiftly from room to room, where other patients had been sent to await examination, prescribing treatments for some of the sufferers and making appointments for operations in other cases.

He examined about 100 applicants. The others, estimated by hospital authorities to number nearly 1,000, were told they would have to come back for later clinics. Almost destitute himself as a result of the war, Dr. Lorenz is holding free clinics here, and will hold them in other cities, as a testimonial of gratitude for the aid rendered by America to Austria's suffering children. He declared he could not even have come to America but for the intervention of friends who made the trip financially possible.

The real estate is valued at $125,000, a $75,000 loss than the appraised value.

Forgot Name of First Husband; Is Rebuked by Court

A sharp reminder that people usually know whether or not they have been married, as well as their married names, was given Wednesday in Superior court by Judge A. C. Hoppmann to Mrs. Grace Lawrence, 64, whose husband, Daniel Lawrence, 84, is suing for a divorce.

Questioned as to whether she had used the name of Grace Saunders and whether she lived as the wife of a man named Saunders in Chicago, Mrs. Saunders replied, "I don't remember."

Following the rebuke by the court, however, she admitted that she had used that name and that she was known as the common law wife of Dr. Saunders before she married Lawrence through the ministrations of a matrimonial bureau. Mr. Lawrence testified that among other expenses, at his wife's request, he paid $50 for the balance due for the funeral of her first spouse. He charges that he has been defrauded by Mrs. Lawrence, who denies the allegation.

CHICAGO—Judge Baker, in federal court, today authorized street car passengers to retain their transfers as receipts to be cashed in at 3 cents each if the surface lines lose their right to retain the 5 cent fare, which the Illinois commerce commission has ordered reduced to five cents. Judge George Carpenter, who granted the injunction yesterday restraining enforcement of the reduction will hear the case Dec. 5.

Slang is Permissible Says English "Shark"

CHICAGO—Slang, it more trenchant than the more sedate words and phrases, is permissible but should not be overworked, Harry G. Paul, president of the National Council of Teachers of English, declared today at the opening of the council's eleventh annual session. China Wins Court Issue at Conference

Abolition of Extra Territorial Right Agreed to "In Principle"

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—Abolition of extra territorial rights in China by which various powers maintain their own courts for trial of their own nationals, was agreed to in principle today by the powers represented in the Washington conference on Pacific and Far Eastern affairs.

The Chinese delegation presented to the committee today a statement strongly urging the abolition of the extra territorial rights and sympathetic responses were said to have been voiced by the representatives of the other powers. Belief was generally expressed however, that the rights could not be given up in view of conditions in China but that the abolition should come as promptly as compatible with the present situation and progress of China.

The committee, upon reaching the general agreement, authorized the appointment of a sub-committee headed by Sen. Lodge of the American delegation to present the principle in the concrete form of a resolution.

The Chinese request for abolition of the extra territorial privileges held by other nations was understood to have had the strong support of the American delegation, Secty. Hughes declaring that the foreign courts should be abolished as soon as China demonstrated her ability to administer justice fairly to all within her borders. Appointment of a sub-committee headed by Sen. Lodge of the American delegation to consider the question of extra territorial rights in China was authorized today by the Pacific and Far Eastern committee of the Washington conference. The Chinese delegation at the session of the committee in executive session presented a detailed statement regarding China's position as to extra-territorial rights which statement was characterized as "reasonable" by the representatives of the other powers.

News of the Markets

Report for November 25

Wheat Prices Rise During Session Day

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO—General buying of wheat took place in the wheat market today during the early part of the session. The stimulus came from an uptick in prices at Winnipeg yesterday and from fresh advances at Liverpool and Buenos Aires. Reports were current that Japan was purchasing wheat heavily in Australia and that India was also buying. Initial quotations which ranged from 1/4 to 1/2 higher with Dec. 1.11 1/2 and May 1.14 1/2 were followed by material further gains.

Increasing seriousness of drought reports from Kansas together with news of drought in southern Argentina led subsequently to additional upticks in price but profit-taking then brought about setbacks. The close was unsettled 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 net higher with Dec. 1.12 1/2 and May 1.15 1/2.

CORN—Corn was firmer with wheat, starting 1/4 to 1/2 higher, May 55 1/2 and later reacted a little. Late downturns in wheat prices had a bearish effect on corn notwithstanding brisk export demand. The close was heavy 1/4 to 1/2 net lower with May 34 1/2.

OATS—Oats after opening a shade to 1/4 higher, May 38 1/2, held steady at about the initial figures.

Stock Market Dealings Are Light Today

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK—Dealings were light at the opening of today's stock market and speculative interests continued to center around selected issues. Davidson Chemical rose 2 points to a new high record and Gas, Truett and Express company shares strengthened. American Smelting and Refining American and Sumatra tobacco also improved but rails, steels, equipments textiles and mail order stocks were disposed to ease. Weakness of German marks featured the foreign exchange list.

Rails, oils, steels and shippings enhanced their gains later as sell money fell to 4 1/2 percent. The close was strong. Bonds were active and higher with new records for Liberty issues.

MILWAUKEE MAN is Pardoned by Blaine
Gentry Allison, Milwaukee, was granted a conditional pardon by Gov. Blaine today. He is to return to his wife and child and contribute to their support. Allison was sentenced to one year in prison May 1, 1921, for larceny. He was convicted of taking $30 from a passenger on the train with which he was connected as porter. The governor says that Allison had no other criminal record and that the ends of justice have been served by his six month's confinement.

6,000 Books a Month Used by U. Students
Although no records are kept of the circulation of the library books, it is estimated that between 5,000 and 6,000 books are taken out each month. This does not include the rack books and the books which are used only in the library. Between 700 and 1,000 books are used each day in the library, while about four times as many books are drawn out the day before a holiday. Approximately 600 books were drawn out the last hour that the library was open on November 10.

More books of English literature are drawn out than any other kind, but probably more books of English history and of economics are used in the library. Since the deposit card became compulsory several years ago, the circulation has increased about 300 per cent.

Arbuckle May Take Stand in Trial Today
SAN FRANCISCO—Conjecture was rife as to whether Patty Arbuckle would take the stand today in his own behalf in his trial on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the death of Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress. The defense has intimated that Arbuckle would testify either today or tomorrow. Arbuckle's own story, expected to include a complete denial that he injured Miss Rappe at a party in his room in the hotel St. Francis here, Sept. 5, probably will conclude the testimony. A number of witnesses from the Los Angeles film colony, notably Alice Lake, have been subpoenaed by the defense.

Liquor Offenses May Be Grouped Together
Repeated offenses of prohibition law violators on different dates may all be grouped on one complaint which can be used to cover all offenses, R. C. Twining, district attorney at Watertown, Wis., is informed in an opinion by J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, given today. Mr. Messerschmidt says that the new Wisconsin statute allows district attorneys to group the offenses and charges under the one complaint, and that all may be disposed of at the same trial.

Marshal Foch Not Coming to Madison
Marshal Foch will be unable to visit Wisconsin on his tour of the United States, Gov. J. J. Blaine was informed today by E. J. Barrett, commander of the American Legion in Wisconsin. The following telegram was received by Governor Blaine from A. T. Rogers of the American Legion, and transmitted to the governor: "Exceedingly sorry to report that it will be impossible for Marshal Foch to visit Wisconsin. He is making a very hurried trip to the West coast and is not routed through Wisconsin. I greatly regret this, but we are trying to show the Marshal the entire West and South in 13 days and can make but few stops."

Search For Perfect Co-ed Proves Vain

Questionnaire at N. W. University Reveals Whole Peck of Sins

CHICAGO — Not one girl in Willard hall, Northwestern university's main dormitory for women, is a perfect lady, according to statistics.

The most circumspect co-ed in the hall is only 90 per cent "moral" if judged by the standards of her mother's day. The gayest of them—alackaday!—is but 20 per cent ladylike. The average is 60 per cent good.

Someone anxious to rate the deportment of the university girls distributed a "morality questionnaire" in the hall a few days ago.

Ten Questions Asked
Each girl was asked to answer ten questions about her behavior, with secrecy, so far as names are concerned, strictly guaranteed.

These are the questions:

1. Have you ever cheated?
2. Have you ever been kissed?
3. Have you ever smoked?
4. Did you ever consciously tell a lie?
5. Have you ever used intoxicating liquor?
6. Have you ever danced improperly?
7. Have you ever worn improper clothes?
8. Did you ever have a "crush"?
9. Were you ever on a "pat-tink party"?
10. Have you ever done anything you would conceal from your parents?

Writes "Yes" Eight Times

One girl had to write "yes" after eight of the questions, according to Miss Mary Day, who compiled statistics from the questionnaires today. And no girl in the hall was able to write "no" ten times.

The most ladylike return contained only one "Yes." It came from a co-ed who had never been kissed, never told a conscious lie, never drank liquor, nor smoked, nor danced improperly. Her one confessed sin was the first on the list. She has cheated.

The average for the hall was 60 per cent, Miss Day found, which means that the average co-ed confessed to four of the ten misdeeds named in the questionnaire.

Publication of the statistics caused consternation on the campus. Co-eds fear that faculty investigation may follow. The returned questionnaires have been destroyed, it is said, in order that inquisitive deans may not discover too much.

Disarm Conference to Adjourn for Christmas

WASHINGTON—Belief was gaining ground today among foreign delegations that the armament and Far Eastern conference might adjourn the first fortnight of December to give time to the delegates to go home for Christmas. Some members of the delegations have already secured passages aboard the Aquitania, sailing from New York Dec. 13. On the interval of the adjournment the committees and sub-committees of experts would continue their work to have precise resolutions ready on the reassembling of the conference.

Austria Urges Kreisler

As U. S. Envoy, Rumor
WASHINGTON, D. C.—The state department had no information on Thursday concerning a report from Austria that that country had suggested Fritz Kreisler, the violinist, as the Austrian ambassador to the United States. A story reached Washington recently that Strauss, the musician, said Kreisler had been put forward for the place.

Drag Road While Wet; Like Macadam

William Rathbun, R. F. People Will Live To Be 100—But Not Until 2074

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK—One hundred and fifty-three years from now or in the year 2074, health conditions in this country will be so good that the average person will live 100 years—according to Red Cross statistical experts. These statisticians based their idea on what they called past passing out performances. In 1910 in New York persons died at an average age of 35 and in 1920 they shuffled along into the next world at an average age of 39. This upward trend they claimed has been in evidence for many years, available statistics from the 16th century showing the span of life to be 18. By the 18th century it had lengthened to 28 years.

A. H. Bartelt Named As Dry Prosecutor

MILWAUKEE—Arthur H. Bartelt, former assistant district attorney of Milwaukee county, has been appointed aide to assist the government in the prosecution of liquor cases in Wisconsin. The appointment was announced in a telegram from Harry M. Daugherty, U. S. attorney general.

Receiver Of Moonshine Must Testify

Drunken Man Can Be Compelled to Give Evidence, Ruling

A drunken man can be compelled by state courts under state law to testify where he obtained the liquor that caused him to become intoxicated, J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, advises Otto L. Olen, district attorney at Clintonville, Wis., in an opinion today. Refusal of the man to divulge the information requested by the court subjects him to punishment for contempt of court, the attorney general holds. Federal law does not give the court these powers, and cannot require that incriminating testimony be given by the prisoner. "In my opinion the provisions of the Severson law prevent the defendant from claiming his constitutional privilege not to incriminate himself," Mr. Messerschmidt says. "It appears, however, that testimony of the defendant taken by compulsion in the state court is inadmissible in the federal court and cannot be used as a basis for a prosecution."

Friend Says France Leads In Disarming

George last May at the time France was proceeding to the Ruhr, which was such a tremendous success.

Lord Curzon's speech was directed primarily at the Washington conference and was clearly an attempt to influence the effect of the conference's attitude toward the French policy in Germany.

"Never be achieved," he said, "if any one powerful enough to make an arrangement."

Curzon bluntly refused to say that her safety lay in the strength of the world, and in the fact that she could not be a revolutionary policy to Germany or be permitted by action to frustrate the will of the nations at Washington.

The speech was remarkable for the expressed determination to bring Germany into the family of nations and for its enunciation of Great Britain's duty in the new world which succeeded the war.

Referring to the new struggling nations which have arisen from the ashes of Germany, Austria, Turkey, and Russia, Curzon said:

"We are one of the great powers, and largely responsible for the creation of these new nations, therefore it devolves upon us to do our best to curb their rivalry, help their growth, and make them instruments of peace, but of future peace."

"The strength and protection of the world," continued Lord Curzon, "must consist in the strength of the nations, not in the strength of the arms, but in the strength of the spirit of her people. It does not consist even in the justice of the cause."

Curzon's speech was a landmark in the history of the world, and it is a tribute to the power of the word that it has been so widely read and so often quoted.

Slip—skid—boom—bang. Sounds like a melodrama, but it's not. Just a result of the uncomfortable sliding tracks along Madison's streets yesterday.

"Hold me," one co-ed was heard to say. "I've a hunch I'm going to fall—bang—all."

It's too bad agents for non-skids weren't on the job yesterday. They would no doubt have reported to headquarters a record breaking demand for their line of goods.

"Isn't this terrible. I just stepped off the porch and—whoop—I fell all the way down those horrid—skid—steps."

Harvey Church Goes On Trial for Murder

CHICAGO — Harvey Church, charged with killing Bernard Daugherty and Cay Ausmus, goes on trial today.

Church confessed to the crime after he was arrested in Wisconsin, according to the police, but afterward repudiated the purported confession.

Daugherty, a salesman for an automobile company, went to Church's home to deliver an automobile which Church had purchased, promising payment on delivery. He was accompanied by Ausmus. When the men did not return the company and police started a search. Ausmus' body was found buried in Church's garage and that of Daugherty in the river.

Church lured Daugherty and Ausmus to his home on the pretext of wanting to buy an automobile, according to one of his numerous confessions which at first involved other men who were afterward proven innocent.

He said that Daugherty went into the house with him alone and he took him to the basement, hit him over the head with an axe and then strangled him. Church said that he threw the body into a coal bin and when Ausmus came into the house a short time later, apparently looking for Daugherty, he dispatched him in the same way.

The harvest supper given at the Badger school last Friday evening was a big success in spite of the weather. Supper was served in the badly decorated gymnasium. Festoons of purple and gold adorned the ceiling while corn stalks, pumpkins and leaves added to the decorations.

After school, songs and yells were given, led by Paul Shavers, cheer leader. The following program was given: Piano selection, Mrs. Capron; reading, Miss Toy, Y. V. C. A. secretary; trombone selection, Mr. Capron; talk, G. W. Davies, agricultural department of the university; violin solo, Warren Meyers, accompanied by Evelyn Meyers; talk, T. S. Thompson, county superintendent; talk, Clara Habernicht, supervising teacher; trombone selection, Mr. Capron.

Mrs. John Anderson and daughter, Virginia, visited school last Friday.

Rendering a Positive Service

The Daily News, Minneapolis, Minnesota, prints the following editorial in its issue of November 14:

When Magnitude Discards Mystery

Frankness is being better recognized a big asset in all human relations, including business.

The bigger the business, the greater the need for frankness.

It wasn't always so; in fact, until only a few years ago, the reverse was true so far as actual practice was concerned and magnitude paid a penalty for the mystery in which it chose to cloak itself.

As one of the biggest of the big industrial and commercial organizations, the Standard Oil Co. used to exercise its full proportionate share of mystery. That this policy has been changed—deliberately and conspicuously—is a development that is as radical as it is interesting to students of publicity.

For three years, Standard Oil has been out of its shell telling the public exactly how it was doing things, why it was doing things and what it was driving at. It has made large use of advertising space in newspapers without regard to their attitude toward itself. It has conspicuously evidenced its desire to talk to the people and to put out its products for a price that included good will.

Today, instead of merely making its products available to those who MUST buy, Standard Oil is employing extensive publicity to make people WANT to buy. There is a very great difference, just about the difference between the exaction of tribute in one case and the rendering of positive service in the other.

Entirely aside from commercial considerations, a policy of frankness and service will tend to iron out some disagreeable wrinkles in the things that are. And the benefits will go to both sides of the equation.

To render a positive service is not alone the desire of those responsible for the management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). It is a well-formed, clearly-understood determination.

This determination to render a positive service is expressed in the multitude of products manufactured by this Company from crude petroleum. The housewife, the motorist, the farmer, the physician, the fabricator of raw materials, almost every special branch of human endeavor, has been considered and that part of the petroleum which will render to each the greatest service, has been segregated and made instantly available.

This is the method chosen by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to make tangible the positive service it is endeavoring to render.

The campaign of advertising which is being carried on has as its object a frank discussion of the ways and means used by the Company in delivering this service, a discussion which tells what it is doing and how it is doing it, and why.

That there is a better understanding of the motives of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and a feeling of increasing confidence in its integrity and straightforward frankness is indicated by the number of favorable comments which the campaign has elicited from the editorial departments of newspapers, big and little, throughout the eleven states served.

Justice, equity, frankness, a basic desire to render a positive service, and a determination to take all of the people into its confidence are the underlying principles governing this organization.

Program Out of Vocational Body Meeting

Convention in Milwaukee to Be Addressed by Madison Men

For the first time in history a Wisconsin city will be host to the annual convention of the Mid-West Vocational Education association when this organization convenes in Milwaukee, Jan. 11 to 14.

J. A. James of the department of agricultural education at the University of Wisconsin is now president of the association.

The membership is made up of teachers of all lines including agriculture, other trades and industries, home economics, commerce and vocational guidance.

A live program has been outlined for the coming mid-winter meeting, according to President James. Special conferences are to be in charge of Dr. W. T. Bowden, assistant to the commissioner of education, and Dr. G. L. Swiggett, specialist in commercial education for the bureau of education. A conference on Industrial Rehabilitation will be held and Miss Tracy Copp of the federal board for vocational education will be present.

Many prominent educators will speak: John Callahan, superintendent of education in Wisconsin; George Hambrecht, director for the Wisconsin Board of Vocational Education; M. White of Merrill-Palmer school of Detroit; Dean Alfred Vivian of the Ohio State agricultural college; Supt. E. E. Lewis of Rockford, Ill.; Dr. Arthur Dean, formerly of Columbia university and now of the Veterans' bureau; C. A. Prosser, director of the Dunwiddie Institute, Minneapolis, and formerly head of the Vocational board of education; and L. L. Hawkins of the United Typothetae, Printers' Board of America.

There are to be four general programs and 10 sectional programs. In the latter division two sections each will be devoted to agriculture, home economics, trades and industries, commercial education and vocational guidance.

It is anticipated that hundreds of city superintendents and principals in Wisconsin will attend.

Home Work Cut Out;

Students Enthusiastic

CHICAGO—Pupils in the Evanston schools have become so enthusiastic over their work that "you can't keep 'em away," since a system eliminating home study has been started, Supt. F. W. Nichols said today. All preparatory work for recitations is now done in school. "The children now reach the building at 8 o'clock in the morning instead of 9, the regular opening hour, and their work is 25 per cent better," he said. The teachers in the suburb's schools recently protested that they were being overworked by the early arrival of the pupils, necessitating the opening of classrooms an hour earlier.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

Trouble With Football

MINNEAPOLIS — "A pigskin postmortem," inviting students, faculty, and alumni to write what in their opinion is the trouble with football at the University of Minnesota, has been started by the Minnesota Daily official university paper. In some circles on the campus this was regarded as the beginning of a movement to seek the resignation of Dr. Henry L. Williams, football coach. The Daily points out that out of eleven conference games in two years, Minnesota has won but two—those with Northwestern and Indiana this year.

Itching Eczema Dried Right Up With Sulphur

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.—Adv.

Ask Freedom For Carlson, Life Prisoner

Supreme Court Asked for Writ Freeing Two Men Following Confession

The state supreme court was asked in briefs filed today, to grant a petition for a writ of habeas corpus releasing Carl O. Carlson and August Blank, serving long sentences for complicity in the murder of Patrolman Anthony Pingatore, Kenosha, from prison.

The petitions allege that Earl Loveday, who is said to have confessed to the crime, has given affidavits absolving Carlson and Blank of any connection with the murder, and also that irregularities occurred in the trial of the two men at Kenosha.

Justice A. J. Vinge, acting chief justice of the court, said today that no action was likely on the petition until next Wednesday, following conference of the justices on Tuesday and Wednesday, when the matter will be brought to their attention.

He is studying the briefs today, and said that there was a possibility of an earlier decision should he convince himself of the course to be followed.

Carlson, Blank and Loveday were charged with robbing the offices of the American Brass Co., Kenosha, on March 30, 1919. While engaged in the robbery Loveday killed Patrolman Pingatore, according to his confession. Carlson and Loveday were then sentenced to life imprisonment, and Blank to 25 years. Loveday's confession is said to absolve the other two men who now ask to be released.

Kenosha, Wis.—"I suffered with a female trouble and at last was in bed for six weeks with what the doctors called inflammation of the bowels. Four of them said I could not live. A neighbor told me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the start. When the doctor came I told him what I had taken and he said 'Throw my medicine away and keep on with the Pinkham medicine.' I did and it cured me. If more women would take your medicine they would not suffer so. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to lots of people and they have been satisfied."—Mrs. MARY RHAPSTOCK, 2704 Wisconsin St., Kenosha, Wisconsin.

When a woman is beset with such symptoms as irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, a displacement, backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness or the "blues" she should treat the cause of such conditions by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

1921 Football Attendance Mark Broken; Badgers Plan Addition

$5,000 Ready Here For New Add To Stand

Many Universities Planning Changes; Jones Reports On Tickets

CHICAGO—All previous attendance records at western college football games were broken this fall by the totals announced on Thursday, and at least five schools have under construction or in prospect a new stadium with enlarged seating capacity. Michigan, with her new stadium dedicated this fall, drew 114,000 spectators at five home games, and Chicago, in spite of a seating capacity equal to barely half the demand, drew more than 160,000, with receipts exceeding a third of a million dollars.

The Iowa game alone drew 25,000 at Minnesota, where total receipts were $92,000, one of the best seasons in Gopher history. The Hawkeyes, with most of their big games away from home except that with Notre Dame, also made $14,000 as their share of the game at Illinois. The Illinois, despite a disastrous season, brightened only by the last minute victory over Ohio State, turned away thousands at the homecoming game with Chicago, which drew 114,000.

Chicago State plans to dedicate a new football field next fall. The double deck stands will seat 60,000. Illinois collected a large part of the $2,500,000 for her memorial stadium which is to be completed in 1923. At Iowa and Minnesota the question of providing more adequate seating facilities has been broached by the athletic directors.

A report on the sale of football tickets for the Chicago game and a minute plan regarding the addition to Camp Randall stadium, the chief matters brought before the Athletic Council at a meeting held in Athletic Director Jones' office yesterday noon.

Twenty thousand dollars were appropriated from the council fund to build a new concrete stand to replace the present cast-iron wooden one, and $5,000 was appropriated for decorative iron and brick work to encircle all of Camp Randall.

Work to Commence Soon

The lower section of the new stand will be divided into locker rooms and store rooms for the use of the various teams. The fence will be built of iron gratings, interspersed at frequent intervals by brick posts. The prevalent feeling was that the addition of the fence will add much to the appearance of Camp Randall. Work on both projects will commence as early as possible in the spring.

Coch Jones made his final report on the ticket sale conducted for the Chicago game.

"This year I ordered more than twice the number of tickets sold for the Chicago game last year," he said, "for more than the total number of tickets sold for the last three games played in Chicago. In 1917 there were 1,088 tickets sold through the athletic department, in 1919 2,088, and in 1920 3,200. These figures include the tickets sold to students, town-people, alumni, a block of 500 which was sent to Milwaukee."

Ordered 2,000 Tickets

"I ordered 2,000 seats this year, in addition to the entire east side of the stadium—totaling 10,000 tickets of the 6,802 tickets sent direct to the athletic department, 1,000 were sent to Milwaukee alumni, and 2,700 were distributed by mail orders to the following: Out-of-the-state alumni, 500; Chicago alumni, 470; alumni within the state, 1,200."

"The team, 'W' men, athletes, coaches, and coaches' wives, and all of the 1922 were sold at the public sale conducted on Tuesday and Wednesday."

Was Liberal Estimate

"The number of tickets ordered was a very liberal estimate of the demand at the Madison office. When the University of Wisconsin in Madison had to pay for the tickets, it was not until after the game that it was realized that the estimate was too liberal."

"The University of Chicago was late in sending the tickets, as 1,000 of them did not arrive until noon on Thursday. I went to Chicago in person as soon as a shortage became apparent, and managed to secure 1,000 more seats which were put up from the boxes and all of which were reserved for Wisconsin."

These seats were sold in Madison on Thursday.

"I am very sorry that there were not as many tickets available as were desired by the students, and I think that when it is realized that we did everything in our power to obtain seats, they will not be unkind in their condemnation of us as we have been thus far. Next year I will arrange to have the entire block of tickets for the Chicago game sent through mail orders in the summer. I hope that all trouble to our rooters will be avoided."

Big Ten Grid Elevens Lose Many Players

Badger Line Hard Hit by Loss of Six Regulars

Although Wisconsin will lose six regulars, who have completed their three years of conference competition, other teams in the Mid-Western circuit will suffer as severely as the Badgers because of the number of men who graduate.

Capt. Guy Sundt, Brader, Bunge, Elliott, Gould, and Woods form a sextet which would be a valuable asset to any team in the country, and Coach John R. Richards will have a big job to fill the holes left. Other players have worked with the Varsity during the past season, however, and have successfully passed the tests of preliminary games. The Badger line will be hardest hit. Brader, Bunge, and Woods are stars of the first water.

Chicago is another team which will have many new faces in the lineup next year. Capt. "Chuck" McGuire, "Death" Halladay, Crisler, Cole, Hurlbut, Hermes, and Redmon are some of the best Maroons who have played their last game on Stagg field.

McGuire is a candidate for many honorary elevens. His steady playing in the Princeton and Wisconsin games has brought him to the eye of critics, most of whom are unanimously in favor of placing him on an All-Conference first team. "Bobby" Cole was put in the shadow by the remarkable showing of Romney, Salt Lake City flash. Cole plays either left half or quarterback.

Iowa, 1921 Big Ten champions, will probably face the heaviest loss of star players. Capt. Aubrey Devine, Glen Devine, Belding, and Slater are a quartet who would graduate the heart of many coaches. Devine is almost a sure-fire choice for All-American quarterback. He is a punter, field goal kicker, good ball-carrier, and handled his team in adept fashion.

Big Slater, the ducky linesman, finished four years of conference competition. The bulky tackle has been responsible for much of Lockes' success in line plunging. If Slater had not opened up the enormous holes in opponents' forward walls, Lockes would undoubtedly have been back on frequent occasions. Belding is an experienced end, and Glen Devine, although eclipsed by his younger brother, is a hard driving back.

Ohio State will be hit by the passing of the great "Truck" Meyers. Meyers is one of the best ends in the conference. He caught the pass that won a championship for Ohio last year, and his work this year has been of the same high standard. Huffman, Pixley, and Taylor are three other Willemens who have sung their "swan song" on the gridiron.

Michigan will lose Vick, center, Stokette, who failed to come up to expectations during the past season, Capt. Dunn, Johns, and Usher. Lesser lights on the Wolverine eleven have also completed their series of battles on the gridiron.

Northwestern loses "Fighting Jack" Hathaway, "Buddy" Turner, and G. Penfield.

Minnesota will be hard-hit by the passing of Capt. Teberg, "Trig" Johnson, and Arnold Oss. Oss was useless in his last year, but he will be back to coach the new men next season. Coach Zuppke, of Illinois, will miss Capt. Laurie Walquist, Sebo, a triangler, and the once-great "Chuck" Penfield.

Other weaker conference teams will be forced to huddle along with the services of many stars who have finished their football careers.

Marquette in 7 to 0 Victory Over Wabash

MILWAUKEE—Dunn shot a forward pass for 40 yards. The ball bounced off Singleton's shoulder. Markiewicz reached up and grabbed it. He juggled the ball and then fell on it across the Wabash goal line. Dunn kicked goal. There is the Marquette-Wabash game in a nutshell. It was every bit as great a battle as predicted. The fighting Hoosiers smothered the Marquette line with its attack, and it was only the great work of Dunn's toe and Tommy Cronin's wonderful defensive play that enabled Marquette to score a 7 to 0 victory over their Thanksgiving day rivals.

These Stars Are Hankering for Another Hitting Rampage

Eight players in the National League last season ran amuck at one time during the 1921 campaign and when the smoke cleared away had slammed out five straight hits in one game. Jack Smith of the Cardinals went on this same rampage twice. These nine players were the only ones in the league to set such records last year. Three of the other eight men were Braves—Southworth, Barbare and Nicholson. Two were Max Carey and Maranville of the Pirates. Griffith of the Dodgers, George Maise of the Cubs and Frank Frisch of the Giants were the others.

Kansas' violations included the engaging in a contest within six days prior to his Milwaukee meeting with Mendelsohn; failure to report in Milwaukee three days before his bout and failure to send the commission a properly certified check for his appearance. Last night's bout originally was set for Monday, but a day's postponement was made necessary because of Kansas' late arrival.

Mohardt Stars in

Notre Dame Victory

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—John Mohardt went into Thursday's game with the Michigan Aggies with a broken nose and was the big star of the Notre Dame 48 to 0 victory. Playing less than a half game, Mohardt drove through the Aggies' line in sensational broken field runs for three touchdowns and passed more than 100 yards to Kiley and Capt. Anderson. The Aggies were helpless before the Mohardt to Kiley passing battery and Wayne, Phelan, and Castner boosted the score by driving through the Aggies' defense for long gains. The Notre Dame team went into the discard after Thursday's game. Thirteen letter men, including the team's five star players, Mohardt, Kiley, Capt. Anderson, Wynne and Shaw, played their last college game.

Racine Legion Scores

On Beloit Fumble

RACINE—The Racine American Legion eleven won from the Beloit Fairies, Thursday afternoon by a 7 to 0 score. The game, the best ever witnessed on a local field, would have been a tie had not Beloit fumbled when near Racine's 10 yard line in the second period, when Gillo, taking the ball, made a 15 yard run and on a pass to Foster, the only touchdown was made. The Fairies could not break the defense of the local eleven.

Tulane Gives Centre

Great Battle; Loses

NEW ORLEANS—Tulane university gave the famous Centre college team a real tussle here on Thursday, but the baffling aerial attack of the Colonels was too much for the Greenbacks and the Kentuckians won, 21 to 0. Herbert Covington was the big star, with Red Roberts and Tanner also shining for Centre. The green gave managed to stop the great Bo McMillin at quarterback on the offense, although the brain work of the plucky Centre leader was an outstanding feature of the contest. The sensational plays of both teams kept the spectators on their toes throughout the contest.

Staleys Defeated, 7 to 6, by All Stars of Buffalo

CHICAGO—After winning seven straight games the Staleys were halted by the Buffalo All Stars at the Cub park Thursday afternoon, 7 to 6. A missed goal kick after a touchdown proved fatal to the Staleys' hopes of maintaining an unbroken chain of victories.

Buffalo presented an all star lineup, having recently obtained several of the Detroit Tigers' best.

Buck Stars

in 25-0 Win Over Chips

Dernell Team Loses to Heavy Legion Squad of Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA, Wis.—The Dernell Chips, an amateur football team of Madison, went down to defeat 25 to 0 here on Thanksgiving Day, before the American Legion eleven, headed by "Cub" Buck, former University of Wisconsin gridiron star. Buck played left tackle with the Legion, and opened up great holes in the Chips' line. The Chips were outweighed 15-pounds to the man. In addition to Cub Buck, the Legion had bolstered their line with "Death" Ryan, formerly of Ames, at halfback. Together with Malley, they punctured the Chip's line at will.

In the last few minutes of play, Madison brought the ball to the Legion's 10-yard line after three forward passes were successful. Gannon shot the ball three times, in succession to Buchanan at right end for big gains. With the ball on the 10-yard line, Tetzlaff dropped back to the 17 yard line on fourth down and attempted a place kick, which was blocked by Buck.

Coach MacChesney of Lawrenceville, who refereed the game, was laid out during the game, when he was caught in a line smash. The Chips were entertained in great shape while here, both at the Fox club and at the American Legion headquarters. Edward Rennetts is manager of the Kaukauna team and Joseph Harrington of the Chips. The game ended the Chips' season.

A STORY OF GYPSY LOVE
By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

ILONA'S PARENTS
"That being the case, I have some news for you, Mr. Cameron," said Miguel, "and the document in this box will explain all to you and your wife. Of course, you understand that I had no hand in the whole procedure and all that I am supposed to do is right a great wrong, at the dying request of a member of my clan. His name I cannot disclose to you, for I pledged myself to secrecy when the man told me, and an oath to the dead is sacred, doubly so."

Here Don Miguel opened the iron box and drew out a small sheet of paper on which was some writing and a signature.

Henry Cameron took the paper, read its contents, and then in a trembling voice he spoke:
"May God forgive the wretch who perpetrated this outrage! I never can. My daughter, my Ilona, to have been stolen and kept away from her own flesh and blood for so many years!" He dropped to his seat again and covered his face with his two hands for a moment.

"I pledge you my word that until three months ago I knew nothing of all this myself," went on Miguel as he stood watching the man before him. "I always felt that there was something different about Ilona, but somehow or other I explained this difference away on other grounds. The women of our tribe are honorable, more so than any others in the world, almost, but occasionally one of them wanders away from her own people, forgets the beliefs and the ideals that she has been trained to and, I know, imagined that Ilona's mother had been one of these traitor vessels, had loved a Gorgio, and that explained the pale skin of the Princess to me. I was glad when I found out the truth, for it hurts the heart to have to believe that a girl like our Caroline should have betrayed the faith of her fathers. She, it was, who reared Ilona. And as the little one took it for granted that she was her mother, Caroline herself decided to let her think so. There is the whole story, I know, but little concerning the actual stealing of your daughter. I know only that on such a date, so many years ago, as stated by the man himself in that paper you hold, Ilona was carried off by my tribe and raised by it, too."

During this recital Henry Cameron sat as though turned to stone. He was re-living again those first fearful days following the disappearance of his baby girl. Memories pressed on his heart and brain relentlessly. This tragedy had cost him more than his daughter, Ilona, as only he knew. From the night of the child's disappearance his wife had become a stranger to him. Trouble, far from bringing them together, had embittered the unhappy woman, to such an extent that for weeks and months afterwards she was partially unbalanced and the sight of her husband was but an added twist to the knife in her side. She had learned to do without him. In fact, Gertrude Cameron had become a changed woman from the day of her baby's disappearance. A warm, loving, motherly, she had become a brooding, restless and discontented wife. Happiest when alone or far from home, Henry Cameron had been forced to spend many thousands of dollars on his broken-hearted wife's travels—here, there and everywhere—in the first years following Ilona's disappearance. And these years had taken their toll of him, too.

From an idolized husband he had become a dreaded person in his own home. Mrs. Cameron seemed to connect, in some mysterious way, the loss of her baby girl with her own husband. His jealousy had caused the tragedy, so she vowed, over and over again. His hatred of any one else demanding her attentions. She had idolized her first born and many a time had Henry Cameron grumbled that what he called her lack of devotion to herself, as soon as the first baby appeared on the horizon. His reveries were broken by the sound of a high girlish voice singing just outside the tent somewhere. Ilona's without a doubt. Her father straightened up and with a forced smile motioned to Don Miguel to call the girl in.

"It is time that we tell her everything," he said brokenly.

At Henry Cameron's words, Don Miguel stepped to the flap of his tent and called "Ilona" in a sharp voice.

"Coming, oh, Chief," answered a sweet girlish one, in response. For an instant afterwards Ilona's chief stood in the doorway, still, bent, waiting.

Then with a laugh she bounded into the room, hair flying, teeth flashing, a picture of girlhood at its most radiant.

With a submissive little gesture she put one hand on Miguel's coat-sleeve in passing and stared widely as he shook it off.

"What is it, then?" she queried, looking up into his eyes, then over to where Henry Cameron sat unsmiling.

"We have something to say to you, Princess Ilona, oh, most white and gentle lady of the moon," began Miguel, melting, as he looked into her happy, starry eyes.

"But you look like so many funerals or inquisitions. What on earth is wrong, Miguel, my chief?" answered the girl.

"Life itself," my friend, not you, and not me. Just life," said Miguel with a note of bitterness in his voice. "But sit down and listen, oh, white maiden, to what we have to say," he commanded tersely.

"White maiden," mimicked Ilona. "What do you mean, my chief? Do you laugh at me tonight? Is it maybe Stella who has changed you?"

Here Henry Cameron came over to where Ilona sat, huddled on the mat and rocking with inward excitement he took her small face in his big hands and looked deep into her eyes.

"Daughter, daughter of mine," he said brokenly. "Don't you know your own father?"
Ilona became a different person at his words. She straightened up, and with wonder in her green eyes stared back at this man who claimed her for his own.
"I don't understand you," she said, finally, in a puzzled voice. "Miguel, explain to me, do. What does the Gorgio say? Why does he look at me so strangely, and why, oh why, have you suddenly become a stone?"
"Mr. Cameron tells the truth, Ilona, Princess," said her chief coldly. "You are a white man's daughter. We can explain all. Read this paper, then understand why many things are cruel in life."

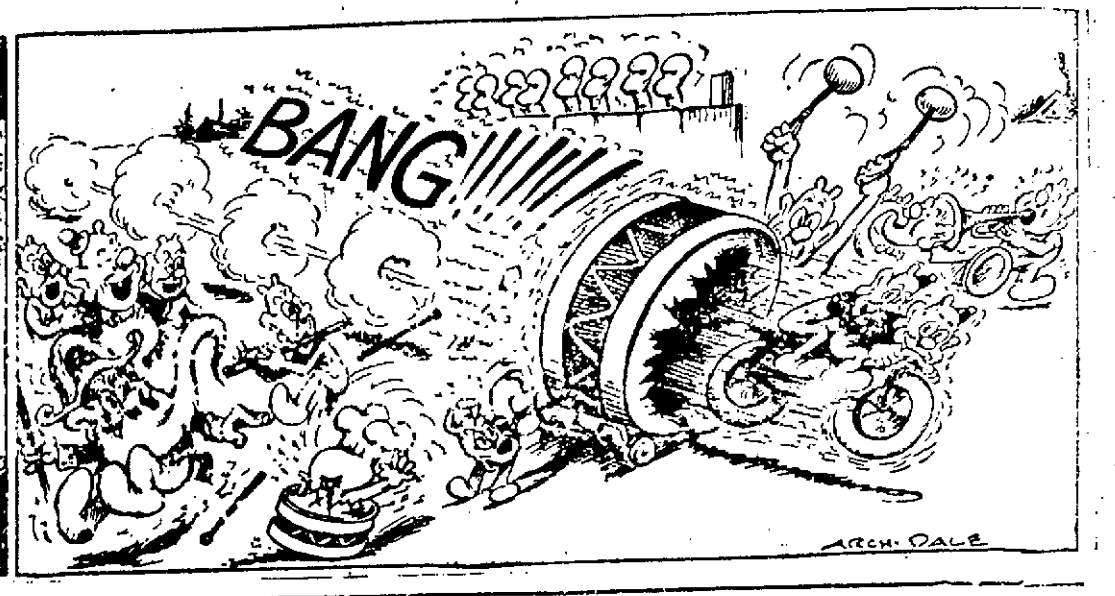

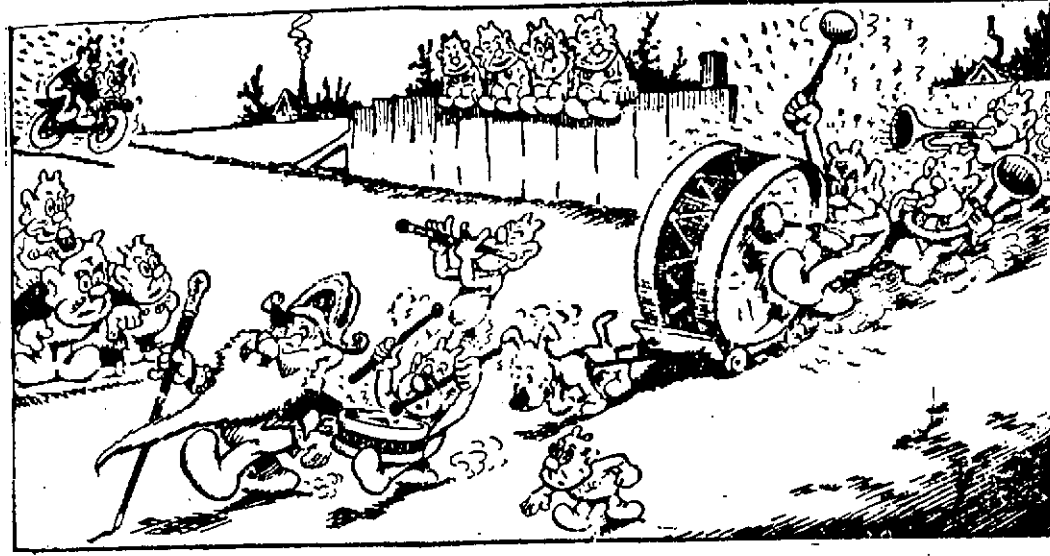

Still wondering, Ilona took the paper he held out to her and read it through. She looked once more at it.

It seemed as if the girl could not possibly make out the true meaning of that dying man's statement. Over and over she read it, then looked blindly at Henry Cameron and Miguel as though for assistance.

"Do you not understand, Ilona, maid of many proud ancestors?" asked Miguel quickly in a mocking voice. "You are not of us. You are of royal blood. Speak then. Tell us what you are thinking."

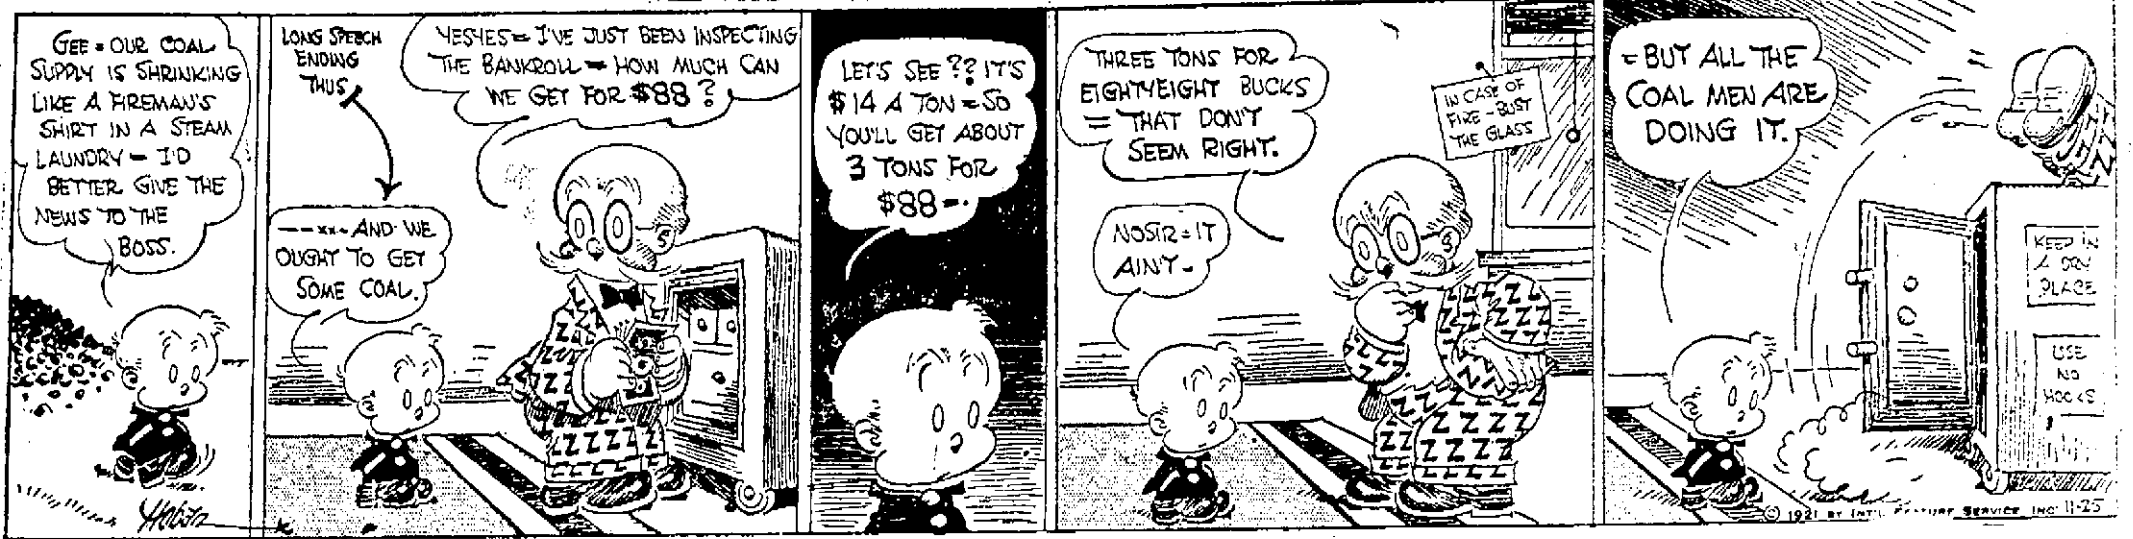

But at his words and look Ilona toppled over in a dead faint. (To be continued)

Billy Whiskers

By Frances Trego Montgomery

Billy hid in the Dutch village for the rest of the night, after he had escaped from the policeman, and passed the time away eating off the flowers and leaves of the rose bushes and other plants which had been set out to beautify the garden. In the gray of the dawn Billy looked through a wicker gate at the back of the Dutch village and saw, only a short way off, a man leading an elephant up from the stream where he had taken him for a bath. When they got near enough Billy saw that it was his old friend from the circus. He bleated to him to hold back and he would run out of the garden and join him. This the elephant did, and he stopped so suddenly that he jerked the man who had hold of his head off his feet.

"Come on, you old clumsy, what are you stopping here for?" Billy heard the man say as he appeared around the corner from the Dutch village.

"How in the world does it happen that you are running around loose?" asked the elephant of Billy. "Oh, I just butted down the shed door where I was shut in, and came out to see that kind of a place this amusement park is, and in my mind it is more like a circus than any thing else. Speaking of circuses, how would you like to be back in one? By the way, how did you get away from the circus we both were in?"

"Easily enough. The company that ran the circus failed and most of the animals were turned over to this and other amusement parks. But I am anxious to hear about yourself and what you have been up to for I know it will be highly entertaining."

Billy was just telling him about his wife and children when he saw the man who rented the goats out for driving with a rope in his hand and knew he was looking for him. So he dodged behind the elephant, hoping not to be seen, but he was too late.

"Ho, ho, there, my fine goat; I've found you at last, have I? Come out from behind that elephant before I club you."

Then the man shouted after him but the elephant kept moving so that his big body was always between them.

"Here, Jim, come and keep your elephant still, so I can lasso this goat."

Jim came, but he was absolutely of no use. The elephant refused to obey him and when the other man went to go around him and the elephant thought Billy was going to be caught, he turned quickly and winding his trunk around his body held him high in the air while Billy dodged his keeper by running under the elephant's stomach. He ran for some distance, dodging in and out of things so the man could not see where he went until he came to a good hiding place.

Here he said until late in the morning and the park was full of people. Then he came out to look for some breakfast and as he was walking down one of the streets he heard the splash of water and loud laughter just the other side of the fence against which he was standing. He turned and looked between the palms.

"Go Hosaphat! What in the world are those girls going to do at the top of that slippery slide, I should like to know."

While Billy was looking at the slippery slide he thought so funny three girls stepped into a queue, looking flat-bottomed boat, a man gave them a push and down the chute they slid, plump into a pond at the bottom.

"Well, I declare, if that isn't the craziest way to have fun that ever heard of."

"main," and Hist! went the sound of the lasso rope over Billy's head. He dodged just in time to save himself from being caught round the neck by the big loop in the lasso.

Billy had been caught this way before, which this man did not know. The minute the lasso passed Billy ran ahead and ran into the entrance to the Shoot-the-Chutes. Seeing no place to hide, he rushed up a flight of stairs before him, which led, he knew not where. Anywhere was better than being caught, so he hurried on and came out on the platform where the girls had been standing before they shot the Chutes.

The starter was getting a box ready for another party of girls; he shot the Chutes when Billy, hearing the man with the lasso coming up the stairs after him, jumped in to the boat, and before he knew what he was doing he was shooting the Chutes with his forepaws on the prow, trying to balance himself.

It had all happened so suddenly Billy did nothing for a minute but stand straight in the boat as he did when he came down the slide.

The spectacle of a big goat shooting the Chutes tickled the children and onlookers very much and they urged the man to catch the goat and make him shoot the Chutes again.

But how were they to get him for his boat was floating in the middle of the pond.

At last a man carrying a long pole with a large hook in the end reached out, caught the hook over the edge of Billy's boat and drew it to the platform.

form.

This was not Billy's liking, so just as the boat touched the landing he jumped out and swam to the opposite side of the tank. But here to his surprise and dismay he was pounced upon by a man with a rope, dragged to the top of the stairs and made to shoot the Chutes again, as this performance was bringing in a lot of money.

He could hear the crier outside calling:
"Right this way to see a live billy goat shoot the Chutes. It's the most wonderful feat ever performed by animal. Come and see it for only ten cents."

cents, am I?"

This performance drew large crowds and was most exciting. At first Billy did not like it but after being petted and fed with apples, peanuts and candy as well as being cheered and clapped by the crowd he rather enjoyed it and entered into the sport with great glee.

Tomorrow the Widow Brown sees Billy perform.)

Mexican Chowder—Soak a scant pint of Mexican beans over night in the morning cook in salted water until tender. Have ready two quarts of beef stock and in it cook one-quarter of a pound of noodles, half a cupful of diced celery and a quart of a cupful of minced onion. When the ingredients are tender add the drained beans, salt and paprika to taste.

one tablespoonful of thick tomato catsup and a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce. Reheat to the boiling point, simmer for five minutes and serve.

Soot—Carbon tetrachloride will remove soot stains. To take them from a rug, sprinkle liberally with salt and sweep thoroughly. This usually removes most of the stains.

Soup—Soup stains in which there is much grease may be sponged with hot water to which soda, borax or ammonia has been added. This for cotton goods. Use benzene on silks and wool.

Automobile bumpers are made of "plywood" which is as strong as steel and lighter. Incidentally they are cheaper.

Mr. Manchester

WHEN a deal involving nearly $400,000 is consummated here such a transaction is of a size to enlist the interest of the entire community. Such a transaction has just been concluded in the sale of the Keeley-Neckerman store to Harry S. Manchester of Chicago. As the central figure in the acquisition of this big store, Mr. Manchester immediately steps into an important place in the life of this community. Madison is one of the best retail centers in the middle west. There is a buying power in this community that would be hard to parallel in any city of its size in the country. Madison has no slums. Its people are, in the main, well to do. Not only does Madison have the capitol and the university, but one of the richest farming sections in the middle west affords Madison merchants an opportunity to extend the merchandising area for miles in all directions.

In acquiring the Keeley-Neckerman store, Mr. Manchester is giving a great opportunity for service in this community. Madisonians will be pleased to know that Mr. Manchester was also actuated in coming to Madison by the charms of this city as a place in which to really live.

The people of the city will also be pleased to know that V. S. Bond will be associated with Mr. Manchester. Mr. Bond has a host of friends in Madison who will be glad to know that he is again entering the merchandising business.

Mr. Manchester and Mr. Bond have a great opportunity here. Madison will continue to be one of the best cities in the country. Business men here have but to keep step with the progress of the community and success will come in large measure.

The Conference

MRS. ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE discusses the disarmament conference in discerning fashion in the current issue of La Follette's Magazine. Mrs. La Follette discusses the conference from the standpoint of a person on the ground. The article follows:

YOU could hardly imagine a more dramatic setting for the opening event of the international conference on limitation of armaments which met on Saturday. For a long time the public had been prepared "not to expect too much." Indirectly the three days of impressive ceremonial had confirmed the general expectation at Washington, that the assembling about the council table of the representatives of the World's great powers would be a matter of slow and formal procedure occupying many days perhaps, in preliminary preparation before any line of action was agreed upon.

When I was called on the telephone and told that Secretary Hughes in his opening address to the convention had proposed as a basis of negotiation the reduction of all the big navies one half, I was breathless. And when later I read his concise, masterly address that the best augury for the success of the conference was that "WE SHOULD MEET THE REASONABLE EXPECTATION OF A WATCHING WORLD BY EFFECTIVE ACTION," I felt as though the world had taken at least one long sure step ahead.

Do you think I am too optimistic? It may be as Ida Tarbell suggests that "limitation of armaments" means little more than giving the God of war a rest. And it is entirely possible that Secretary Hughes' proposal is based on "economic necessity,"—that the heads of governments realize that nations must be freed for a while from the burden of competitive armaments or go bankrupt. It is probably true that the immediate representatives of the nations about the council table were not so much surprised by Secretary Hughes' bold, frank proposition as was the general public. It may be perfectly logical to say that so long as the nations keep their ratio of ships they will be prepared to make war on each other.

But I do not measure the influence of Secretary Hughes' proposal by any of these standards. I am thinking of the effect of his action on a watching world! If the watching world was militaristic and only asking for a respite—a chance to get ready to wage a still more terrible war—then it might indeed be silly to count so much on the offer to cut the world's navy in two, even though such a thing has never happened before in the world's history.

But the watching world is not militaristic. It is looking to an end of war. It will not be satisfied with less. And especially the women of the world who now have the vote will not be satisfied with less—if I am not greatly misled by the fervor of the feeling which I found in Wisconsin.

Senator Borah, interviewed on Secretary Hughes' proposal, is reported as having said, "Public opinion did it," but he warns, "Remember Mr. Wilson's fourteen points * * * Mr. Wilson went to Paris * * * Public opinion dozed," and I notice other high authorities voice timely warning that public opinion should not go to sleep.

In my judgment, however there is much more reason to believe that public opinion will be encouraged and enthused to ASK FOR MORE rather than that it will be easily satisfied and lulled to sleep with HALF A LOAF.

Disarmament is a simple, concrete issue—a means to an end. It appeals to the plain common sense of the plain people. That is why public opinion is today so irresistible. Every day people grasp the basic idea just as Mr. Lloyd-George, Prime Minister of England, puts it in a recent interview:

"Disarmament is the only road to safety for the human race. Suspicion, fears, misunderstandings, and even quarrels are as inevitable among nations as among individuals, and if deadly weapons are at hand, one day they will strike."

Secretary Hughes' practical proposition at a definite specified time and way to cut in half the navies of the world, will be seized upon by the war worn, tax-burdened, people of all lands as a demonstration that the whole business is an evil which can and should be finally scrapped altogether.

Even if the people were disposed to doze off or go to sleep at the first sign of the possible fulfillment of their desire to make an end of war, they will not be allowed to do so. The tide has turned. Already there are signs that from now on, the leaders of the great parties will vie with each other in the advocacy of disarmament.

The Washington Herald reports Senator Pomerene of Ohio saying that while he heartily endorses Secretary of State Hughes' proposal, he will continue to press his resolution, requiring the President to immediately suspend all or part of the naval construction program as "an additional evidence of our good faith and a saving of millions to the people."

Former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo is quoted as saying:

"There never was a time when the abolition of navies was so nearly within our grasp as now. With the abolition of navies, land warfare will be restricted. Navies spread the contagion of war."

And there is a decided trend in the interviews of very conservative men in public life of all political faiths to indicate a willingness to go further in the matter of disarmament than the plan proposed by Secretary Hughes.

A year ago no one other than an idealist could have been made to believe that in less than twelve months an international conference on limitation of armaments would be in session in Washington. Public opinion brought it about. And today the proposition to scrap half the navies of the world is before such a conference. That fact has been brought about by public opinion. Who shall set a limit on what public opinion may accomplish once started on the right road, conscious of its power?

Who's Who in the Day's News

JOHN WORK GARRETT

JOHN WORK GARRETT, chosen as secretary general of the arms conference, is a partner in the banking firm of Robert Garrett & Sons at Baltimore, which firm he entered shortly after having graduated from Princeton in 1895. He entered the diplomatic service in 1901 by appointment of President McKinley as secretary of the American legation at The Hague. He served in that capacity for two years, becoming secretary of the legation to the Netherlands in 1903. From 1905 to 1908 he was second secretary of the American embassy at Berlin and from 1908 until 1911 served as first secretary to the American embassy at Rome.

During 1911 he served as minister to Venezuela and then became minister to Argentina, where he served for three years until 1914.

At the outbreak of the war in Europe he was assigned as a special agent of the department of state to assist the American ambassador in Paris and served in that capacity until August 23, 1917, when he became minister to the Netherlands, serving until August 10, 1919.

In 1916 Mr. Garrett was assigned at the request of the French government to inspect the German camps for French prisoners, and later became chairman of a special diplomatic mission to negotiate with Germany a treaty regarding prisoners of war, which treaty was signed at Berne on November 11, 1918. He is a member of a number of Baltimore, Washington and New York clubs.

As secretary general of the arms conference Mr. Garrett's duties include supervision of all the details of the conference, the issuing of all its formal statements and the keeping of all its records.

Timely Views Not In The News

MAYOR JAMES COUZENS of Detroit has declined an invitation to speak in Chicago on traction problems and has attacked William Hale Thompson, mayor of Chicago, as an "irresponsible" man. He refuses to speak there so long as Thompson remains executive of the Illinois metropolis. Mayor Couzens' letter to Mayor Thompson follows:

JAMES COUZENS

"Messrs. Richard W. Wolf and Charles Blick presented to me your letter of introduction on Nov. 2.

"The very cordial invitation extended by these men to be a guest of the Cook county real estate board at their fourteenth annual banquet to be held in Chicago Dec. 8, 1921, was received and taken under consideration—until your statement published in the Chicago American of Oct. 25 was drawn to my attention, when I concluded that under no circumstances could I visit Chicago at your invitation while a man so irresponsible was in the mayor's chair.

"I have taken the pains to get the accuracy of the statement, and am advised that your secretary vouches for the accuracy of the same, which was to the effect that you would not adopt a plan suggested by Secretary of Commerce Hoover. With that, of course, I can find no fault, but I do find fault when you go on to challenge the plan on the theory that it is a capitalistic move, the object of a black list, the refusal of charity to American union labor men, a drive against union labor men, and a conspiracy to lower wages.

"It was my privilege to be called to President Harding's unemployment conference, and to be there during the entire time of the deliberation on ways and means of relieving the unemployment, and not only was there no such object in view as you outlined, but the best possible spirit prevailed for the actual relief of the unemployed, whether union or non-union.

"It was not in any respect a capitalistic meeting, which was evident by the attendance of Mr. Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Carter of the railroad men and other leaders who participated in the negotiations and approved of the findings.

"Your kind of public attack upon the energies and efforts of well-meaning citizens is deplorable and it can not have back of it any sincerity whatever. I am sorry for Chicago, for it is making a most unenviable record throughout the country because of the kind of leadership (or lack of leadership) that you are giving."

A Smile or Two

A certain professor reproving his girl students for their tardiness in arriving said sarcastically:

"This is a class in English composition, not an afternoon tea."

At the next meeting one girl was twenty minutes late. The professor waited until she had taken her seat and then remarked bitingly: "How will you have your tea, Miss Brown?"

"Without the lemon, please," was the girl's witty reply.

An Arizona cotton grower, in discharging one of his negro hands, was lamenting his hard luck. "Cotton has gone to the dogs, this year, George—I'm a big loser."

"Yassah," returned the dandy, "I reckon you is boss."

"And," went on the grower, "I'm out all the money I've paid you for wages, and the grub you've eaten besides."

"Yassah," agreed the dandy, "I guess you is, white folks."

"Well, confound you," growled the grower, "you don't seem to be worryin' your head any!"

"Lawdy," returned the dandy, "Ain't a bit of use of me an' you both worryin' 'bout the same thing, is they?"

Three negroes got mixed up in a quarrel and were locked up. Next morning they appeared before the judge. The first was given three months, and becoming abusive upon hearing his sentence, the judge increased it to six months. The second was given six months, because he, too, was abusive. The turn of the third man came.

"Now," said the judge, "what have you got to say?"

"I sure ain't got nuffin' to say, judge," he said. "Three months' plenty nuff for dis nigger."

Here is a singular incident showing how easy it is to mistranslate an overheard remark.

Said Mrs. A, one of the overhearers: "They must have been to the zoo, because I heard her mention 'a trained deer.'"

Said Mrs. B: "No, no. They were talking about going away and she said to him, 'Find out about the train, dear.'"

Said Mrs. C: "I think you are both wrong. It seemed to me they were discussing music, for she said, 'A trained deer' very distinctly."

A few minutes later the lady herself appeared and they told her of their disagreement.

"Well," she laughed, "that's certainly funny. You are poor guessers, all of you. The fact is, I'd been out to the country overnight and I was asking my husband if it rained here last evening."

IT WORRIES THE SPECTATORS

Third Music Memory Contest

(A movement to acquaint Madison with the best music, through a contest in naming selections from hearing them. Open to everyone without fee or restrictions.)

SELECTION NO. 11. Allegro and Andante from the Fifth Symphony (1st and 2nd Movements), by Ludwig van Beethoven (born 1770, Bonn, Ger.; died 1827, Vienna).

Lovers of art travel long distances to behold great cathedrals and famous pictures. Music presents its supreme achievements in our midst—now and then through the medium of the symphonic orchestra or the balanced choral society, but more frequently through the solo instrument, phonograph or player piano. So all of us may easily come into touch with the masterpieces in music while most of us can never see the best in the other arts. Our selection for this week is one of the towering monuments of music.

Beethoven's C minor symphony is not only best known and most generally enjoyed of Beethoven's symphonies, but it is a more universal favorite than any other work of the same class. It owes this to its own merits, to the prodigious originality and force of its opening, the mysticism of the scherzo and the astonishing grandeur of the Finale, to the way which, throughout the work, technicality is effaced by emotion.

GIANT COMPOSER

Surveying the entire field of musical composition, one is tempted to say that in Beethoven pure music speaks its last word. Certainly it is true that he carried the composer's art to a pinnacle of perfection never attained before his time, and certainly since his time there is little, if anything, beyond him unless it be in the piling on of tonal masses and the adding of bizarre effects which are not always musical.

This is due in the main to three circumstances. First and foremost, Beethoven was endowed with a fertility of musical invention that may be termed inexhaustible, which enabled him to produce one great composition after another without even a superficial resemblance between them. No other composer can vie with the masterful richness of his numerous "variations." Second, Beethoven's nature was such that he was never content with his work until he had given it the highest perfection of which he was capable. The master mind is always its own best critic. Third, there was a greatness of soul in Beethoven which imparted a certain grandeur to everything he touched, and which is responsible for the nobility of style that characterizes his mature works. Whether we regard his chamber music, his sonatas, and concertos for piano and for violin, his overtures, or his nine great symphonies, everywhere we find unmistakable evidences of one of the greatest musical geniuses.

Beethoven's production is often divided into three periods, exemplified clearly by his symphonies. In the first he is the contemporary of Haydn and Mozart, and talks much the same language. To this period belongs the first and second symphonies, limpid, clear and charming. In the second period he has reached his own mature and deepened style, and it is to belong the striking Eroica (No. 3), the gay and melodious fourth (rejoicing in the happiness of his betrothal), the poignant fifth, the ever delightful Pastoral (precursor of most of our program music), the dancing seventh (many still remember Isadora Duncan's brilliant interpretation), and the passionate eighth.

PURE BEAUTY

The second movement, andante, offers a marked contrast to the turbulent mood of the allegro. It is a set of variations, graceful and elaborately finished, on a theme which contains several sections and covers 48 bars in all. The first section, a graceful air in dotted notes, is played by cellos and violins in unison, then follows a descending melody on the strings, third an ascending air for clarinet and bassoon, finished by the violins, and lastly a very beautiful little coda. These 48 bars are then repeated with variations a first and second time, after which the composer allows himself some more playful interludes, such as a little duet between clarinet and bassoon, a passage of thirds in contrary motion, a crashing and martial repetition of the third section, and other matter. The conclusion is extraordinarily noble and beautiful, and culminates in an extended repetition of the second section of the main subject, in which a most touching effect of pathos and emotion is produced.

BELOIT PREPARES FOR STATE MEET DEC. 1, 2 AND 3

Delegates From Campus Publications Will Attend Third W. I. P. A. Convention

Representatives from all campus publications will be sent to the third annual convention of the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Press association at Beloit on December 1, 2, and 3.

Much of the credit for the organization of this association with the annual convention and journalistic contest goes to Lawrence W. Murphy '21. The idea, being a new one, is still in a stage of development, but the convention this year promises to be one of the greatest of its kind, which has ever been held by any association of college publications.

THE DELEGATES FROM UNIVERSITY PUBLICATIONS ARE AS FOLLOWS:

Literary Magazine, Willard J. Kendall '22; Badger, Horace E. Powell '23; Octopus, Rodney Walsh '22; Fred Brewer '22, and Phil Walsh '22. The delegate from The Daily Cardinal has not as yet been selected.

Professors W. G. Bleyer, G. M. Hyde, and E. M. Johnson, of the Course in Journalism, will probably attend the Saturday session. George Greene '22 is executive secretary of the association.

Judging of the publications will be by men from outside the state. This is a new feature of the contest and one which promises more interest and fairness on the part of the judges. Among the men asked to judge are J. W. Gunliffe, of Columbia university; F. L. Martin, of the Missouri School of Journalism, and G. C. Bastian, of Northwestern university.

Beloit college is preparing an interesting program for the conference. Men from prominent newspapers throughout the country have been asked to speak among whom will probably be Walter Strong, business manager of The Chicago Daily News. Two whole days will be devoted to speeches and inspection tours of the Beloit Daily News and of several factories.

Friday evening the Beloit players will present "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde. A discussion of college publications from the editorial and managerial point of view will be held Saturday morning. The final business meeting will be held Saturday afternoon at which time officers, and the place for the next convention will be selected.

The convention will end with a banquet Saturday night. President George Dundon, of Beloit, will act as toastmaster. The principal speaker of the banquet has not been announced.

15,000 Letters Are Distributed Daily By "U" Postoffice

Fifteen thousand letters a day is the students' quota of mail according to Superintendent, Copp, of the university branch post office. "This station acts merely as a distributing center, and has but little importance as a receiving station," said Mr. Copp.

In addition to the 15,000 letters daily for students, the branch post office distributes approximately 1,800 letters daily to the university personnel. University mail is handled at the main post office but is distributed by a carrier from the university branch. Monday is a heavy day for the university carrier, for on that day he averages 3,200 letters.

On the Side

THE "YOUNGER SET" The "younger set," the "younger set," we hear of them each day. With their Airplane pups and horse show cups. And their razz, jazzy way. Oh, the swagger pairs and love affairs. And their gossips at the Rialto. Society news sets forth their entertaining bits. Society's pet is the "younger set." With its "toddle," "jazz," "crawl." With its "debs" and "subs" and gay flub-dubs. And its weird Tuxedo drawl. Society's game is a hard way to fame. When the staid old fogies find it's a strenuous fad, and I'm sure ways been glad. I'm not in the "younger set."

"Do not be a litterer," says Mayor Hyland. We hope this doesn't refer to some of our literary people.

They say they are selling space at a flat rate in New York, but what if you don't live in a flat?

IT'S OLD, BUT THIS IS A BULL DOG. Went to a show last night, but I got a dog's seat—K9. How's that?

—A. J. Newman. Kansas City motorist found a $300 diamond stickpin in his pocket. How did he see that $300 diamond—with a microscope?

New York actress went west and had her face stretched and is now a beautiful young thing ready to play kid parts in the pictures. It might be well to have this tried on some of the "beauty choruses" we have seen.

Octy Offers Outlet For Medic's Humor

Medics, in addition to their regular study of bones, are spending much time in the well-known building of funny bones, evidenced by the volume of material turned in to Octy, that an Octopus contribution box has been made available to them.

A little white box with the red letters "Octopus" now graces the entrance of Science hall in order that the Medic cracks may not be wasted.
